AUTOMOTIVE FUELS RESEARCH ENGINEER

The AMOCO RESEARCH CENTER has an outstanding career opportunity available for a BS or MS Mechanical Engineer with 2-8 years of experience with IC Engine background. Additional interest in computers, instrumentation and petroleum chemistry helpful.

Individual will conduct a variety of studies in fuels R&D to develop and improve new and existing oil products. Emphasis is on automotive fuels (gasoline/diesel), but also includes non-automotive applications (kerosene, jet fuel, heating oils). Major activities cover:

- Engine and fleet testing to define product quality needs.
- Selecting and testing new products, including synthetic fuels. Studies include volatility, blending problems and special additives.
- Evaluating automotive design trends in such areas as emissions, fuel economy and combustion performance.
- Developing technology needed to optimize refinery blending and treating operations.
- Consulting on a wide range of product and automotive related problems.

The salary offered is commensurate with experience and qualifications. Our benefits and working conditions are the best in the industry. AMOCO's Research Center is located in Naperville, Illinois—just outside Chicago, and will provide a choice of urban, suburban or rural living. Resumes with salary history should be sent to:
