Nazi hunter speaks at 'Woman's World'

Beate Klarsfeld, famed Nazi hunter, will be the featured speaker Wednesday, May 2 at Congregation Shaarey Zedek's Woman's World, 1984.

The daylong program, held at the Synagogue, 27375 Bell Road, Southfield, will begin at 9 a.m. with a continental breakfast and boutique shopping. Klarsfeld will speak following luncheon at 11:30.

Klarsfeld, a non-Jew, was most recently responsible for the deportation and imprisonment of Klaus Barbie, charged with "crimes against humanity" in France. Among those crimes are the deaths of 41 children ages 3-13 of Izieu, France.

Born a Lutheran in Berlin in 1939, Klarsfeld awoke to the horrors of the Holocaust after her marriage to Serge Klarsfeld, a French Jew, whose father was killed at Auschwitz. Klarsfeld, now living in Paris and the mother of two, has been reported to feel that Germany will never be reunited until all Germans come to understand and accept their role in the Holocaust.

In explaining her work, Klarsfeld said that the legacy of the German people "demands a permanent moral involvement in the struggle against the survival of Nazism." Klarsfeld has committed herself to that task, and to that end works and travels fulltime to expose Nazis and to force responsible action on the part of the world's governments.

Recently jailed and released in South America, Klarsfeld is working to pinpoint other escaped Nazis, call world attention to their existence, and to bring them to justice.

Tickets for the Woman's World event, the Sisterhood's only fund-raising project, may be obtained by sending a check, payable to Sisterhood of Congregation Shaarey Zedek, to Woman's World, Congregation Shaarey Zedek, 27375 Bell Road, P.O. Box 2056, Southfield 48037. General admission is $25. Patron tickets at $36, $58, or $100 are also available. Baby-sitting can be arranged by request.

Boutiques, which will be open before and after the luncheon, feature shops and specialty stores, many especially stocked for Mother's Day selections. Among the merchants present will be Artwear, Baby-Bye Jeannetta, Beadworks, Bookpeople, Bonnie Shapiro, Chic Boutique, Down Plus, The Earth and Me and Finishing Touches Ltd.

Also included are Gloria Check, Elizabeth Green, Debbie Groner Knits, Kathleen Cepela Flowers, Helena, Ingrid in the Home, Karma Kreation, Marmel Gift Co., P.S. Stationary, Party Line, Quinn Studios and Rhoda Scott.

Roz and Sherm, Sacchi, Shelly Schultz Jewelry, Serendipity, Something Terrific, Spacemakers and Susie's Stuff round out the list.
