REALTRON
REALTRON ... The World's First Completely Computerized Realty Multilist is at Your Service!

You, as prospective home buyers or sellers, are assured of quicker and more complete information concerning the purchase and sale of real estate. Here's how it works:

Let's suppose you are looking for a home in Livonia. Tell your salesman your requirements: a ranch-style home, brick construction with three bedrooms, garage, fireplace, swimming pool, in the $25,000 price range. The salesman reaches for his telephone and asks the computer what's available that meets these specifications, using the touch-tone dial to tap out his requirements in code. The computer searches its memory and within seconds reports orally to the salesman with a list of numbers corresponding to the houses that meet the customer's requirements. The salesman goes to his file, pulls the cards containing the photos and descriptions of the properties in question. You decide which ones you're interested in and arrange with salesman for a personal inspection.

The computer also aids in the listing of properties to be offered for sale. Broker B, for example, has a client who is being transferred from Detroit to Cleveland by the company he works for and consequently must sell his home — as quickly as possible. The customer has no idea what a fair market price for his home might be; however, stored in the computer's memory is complete information about what other comparable houses in that area have sold for during the past year. Broker B queries the computer and is instantly supplied with a list of similar houses and their selling prices within the immediate area.
