Open Housing Vote Revives Old Memories

EDITOR:

With the Open Housing vote coming up next Monday in Plymouth I would like to suggest that all Plymouth residents read David Strang's "Top Side of Life" column in last Sunday's paper...and please read it thoughtfully and with an open mind.

I have heard so much comment about what will happen if the measure is passed that I would like to relate an incident which occurred when our family moved here over 25 years ago. The real estate people made it clear to us that we could have colored help in during the day but that it was not permitted to have them stay overnight in Plymouth.

We had moved to Plymouth from a large industrial city with a large foreign (and colored) population. We had come to Plymouth, not to get away from the minority groups, but because my husband's new job was in Plymouth. I was amazed to find out how many of the residents felt about the Negro.

I mentioned this to my next door neighbor, who incidentally was a Catholic. She told me that it was explainable in Plymouth. . .and that when her in-laws had moved to Plymouth years before and were one of the first Catholic families here, that the people walking along the street crossed to the other side rather than walk in front of a Catholic home.

Now I am living in an apartment in Plymouth and I've heard it said by many Plymouth taxpayers that only property owners should be allowed to vote on the Open Housing issue. I would remind all who feel this way that I'm sure my landlord, being an honest man, will have paid his property taxes, a part of which came from my rent. And incidentally, not one child has been added to the school district by these 16 families living in this apartment complex.

Is 'Oracle' Wrong

EDITOR:

The latest literary effort of the "Oracle of the Observer" is far beyond those that preceded it. The Reverend Strang's observations can indeed be called revolutionary in that they go in circles.

His statement that television may be the most revolutionary force in society today is his opening mistake. Obviously, he has not watched the tube of late. Such epics as "Bonanza," "Hogan's Heroes," and "Peyton Place" still reign supreme.

And so to the racial revolution. Ah, TV and its influence, again. The poor Negro sees how white America lives, via the tube. A short time ago the down-trodden black man (according to the Reverend Strang) only saw the white man's house or world first hand as a servant or domestic.

The Reverend Strang is a typical Liberal preacher. He further underestimates Negro intelligence when he says that TV only shows the shining things that the Negro wants.

If TV shows the Negro anything, it shows him success. It shows him opportunities—such as, Thurgood Marshall, a Supreme Court Justice; Carl Stokes, a mayor; the Supremes, entertainers.

BEATING THE BUGS

Because mosquitoes are not only a nuisance, but also can carry disease, American homes and businesses use well over 500 million square feet of wire screening each year. In choosing your screening, according to the Gromley & Larsen Screening Company, look not only for material and price, but also for quality construction and uniformity. There are differences in screening quality, and local hardware dealers will be happy to explain what they are.
