1997 Sonoma, previous page

brakes, heavy-duty springs and shocks, driver air bag, 4-wheel anti-lock brakes, daytime running lags, AM/FM stereo, volt-temp-oil pressure gauges, dual mirrors, intermittent wipers, full carpeting and mats, dual lighted visor mirrors and gravel anti-chip protection. In the glove box is a complimentary bottle of touch-up paint.

It's almost become an industry standard, but I'll still mention that the Sonoma is equipped with platinum-tipped spark plugs that have a service life of 100,000 miles and long-life collant that lasts five years or 100,000 miles.

The GMC Sonoma is a good compact truck that'll serve you well, whether you're a young lady traveling to college or a guy who needs a work truck at the construction site. It's versatile, functional and durable.
