Foot & Ankle Health Tips
by Dr. Randy Bernstein and Dr. K.D. Poss
PREVENTING THE PLANTAR WART
The plantar wart gets its name from the place where it usually occurs: on the "plantar" area, or sole, of the foot. While these small benign tumors are not dangerous, they can certainly be painful and unattractive. Plantar warts are caused by a virus that attacks the outer layer of the skin before being invaded, forming a hard core of dead tissue as it progresses. The virus is highly contagious, so prevention is linked to careful personal hygiene. Use only your own wash cloths and towels, and avoid sharing socks among family members. People with plantar warts should refrain from going barefoot, even wearing foot coverings in the bath.
Warts! Nobody wants them and, luckily, there are several effective methods available today that podiatrists can use to get rid of them. But, as an infection caused by a virus, warts almost never go away on their own, and you'd be smart to have your podiatrist get rid of yours once you discover one on your foot or hands. We'll solve your foot problems one step at a time here at FOOT HEALTH CENTERS-Total Foot and Ankle Care. We cater to cowards. Laser surgery or conservative chemical treatments are very successful with no discomfort.
P.S. Over-the-counter wart removers often contain highly corrosive materials that can damage healthy foot tissue and do not eradicate the warts. We at Foot Health Center use laser surgery and chemical treatments with a 99.9% success rate!!!
