Dairy Rations

There appears to be little evidence that normally fed cows need vitamin supplements. Sunshine and sun cured roughage evidently furnish all the D that is needed except possibly for a short period at freshening in the case of very heavy milkers, and pasture grass in summer and good quality hay or hay and silage in winter supply enough A. So far as we know, other vitamins do not constitute a problem in the ration for the milking cow.

Don't Expose Tires

Rubber tires should not be allowed to freeze to the ground, and if left out for long periods, they should be protected by one of the protective paints now on the market.

Poor Hay

Not only do cows eat less pounds of poor hay than of good but what they do eat contains less nutrients per pound. And of the nutrients consumed less are digested and utilized for production.

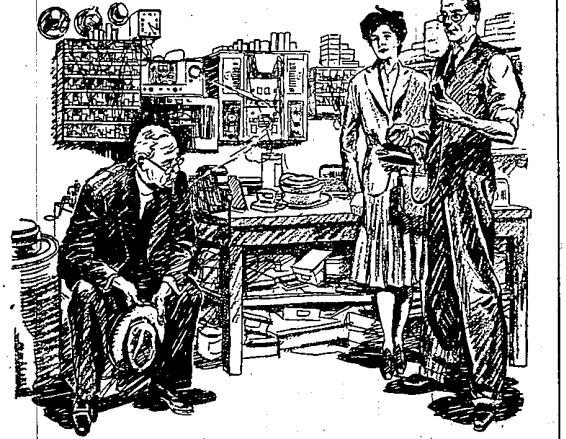
THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...



"We can't argue with the Judge on that point, can we Mabel? It's not fair to penalize the many for the actions of the few."

"That, folks, is exactly what we would be doing in this country if we ever voted for prohibition again. Authorities who have made a careful study of the problem, report that only about 5% of those who drink abuse the privilege occasionally... 95% drink sensibly. Probably doesn't compare with the number of folks who overeat and do other things to excess. Prohibition certainly isn't the answer. It's not that simple. We had nearly 14 years proof of that, didn't we?

"The real answer is education and better control. In fact, the responsible members of the distilling industry are working constantly toward that end. They don't want anybody to abuse the use of their product any more than the three of us do."

"If everybody would take that sensible attitude, Judge, and cooperate as more and more are now doing, we'd be a lot better off a lot quicker."
