Keeping German vehicles running smoothly hardly sounds like a job for a U.S. Army Ordnance Company—but it is!

The 14th Ordnance Company, which has made four D-day invasions and which is one of the closest ordnance units to the 7th Army's front lines—does its best to keep captured Nazi cars, trucks, vans and trailers in tip-top shape. Among non-commissioned officers of the company is Sgt. James E. Tolman of Farmington.

This unit was activated at Aberdeen, Maryland, in February, 1941, and sailed for Great Britain exactly a year later. It participated in the invasion of North Africa at Oran, Algeria, and served with the British First Army, the French 19th Corps, and the American II Corps in Tunisia.

In Africa, members of the company were repairing rifles in the foxholes. In Italy, they won 5th Army citations from Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark two months in succession. "The uninterrupted schedule of maintenance has been attained by this unit not only through a profound devotion to duty despite hazardous battle conditions," read one of the citations in part.

Among Farmington men who are now receiving their initial indoctrination at the U.S. Naval Training Center at Great Lakes, Illinois, are Leo A. Hupert, 27908 Orchard Lake Road, Richard Fisher, 21902 Albion and William P. Sonnenberg, Jr., of 21503 Cambridge.

—V—

Private James W. Lee, Route 2, Farmington, a rifleman, is serving with the 349th Infantry Regiment, one of Lt. General Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army Units, which smashed the Gustav and Hitler Lines and chased the Germans from the Garigliano to the Arno River in Italy. Part of the 88th Infantry Division, first Selective Service Infantry division to enter combat on any front, the 349th piled up a total of 95 miles gained in 46 days of actual combat during the Fifth Army sweep up the Italian Peninsula. Known as the "Kraut-Killers," doughboys of the 349th fought across some of the worst mountainous terrain to capture Fondi, key point in the vaunted Adolf Hitler Line, and protected the flank of the French Corps in its push across Mts. Ausoni and Lepini.

Private Neal L. Hargrave recently spent a few days with his wife and family at their home, 7005 Orchard Lake Road. Private Hargrave was en route from Texas to his new station at Truax Field, Madison, Wisconsin.

—V—

Private Richard Pauline, who has been awaiting assignment at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri, spent the week end with his mother, Mrs. Hertha Pauline.

FIRST LECTURE OF SERIES IS FRIDAY

The first of a series of five free public lectures on Christian Science, which will be given this year by Eighth Church of Christ, Scientist in its edifice at Grand River Avenue and Evergreen Road, will be held on Friday evening, September 29th. The time will be eight o'clock, and the lecturer will be Harry C. Browne, C.S., of New York City, who will be heard at Eighth Church for the first time.

The subject of the lecture will be: "Christian Science: The Gospel of the Comforting Christ."

Mr. Browne is a member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist in Boston, Massachusetts, and speaks with authority on Christian Science.

This lecture is free and the public is cordially invited. A section of seats will be reserved until 7:45 for those who have never before attended a Christian Science lecture.

Regular services of Eighth Church are held each Sunday at 10:30 and 7:30. Wednesday evening meetings at eight o'clock include testimonies of healing in Christian Science. Sunday School is at 10:30 a.m. for pupils up to the age of twenty.

A free public Christian Science Reading Room is maintained in the church edifice and is open daily. Here the Bible, the works of Mary Baker Eddy and all other authorized literature including the Christian Science Monitor, may be read, borrowed or purchased.

SCIENCE LECTURE COVERS CURRENT SITUATION

the spiritual qualities, faculties, and attributes derived from the creator—the creator of good and good alone—has survived throughout the ages the persecution of his would-be dominators and destroyers. The real man is indestructible because of his indissoluble connection with his Maker. He lives on to bear witness to the eternality of his God-given being. Man's seeming bondage to all forms of tyranny must yield to a diviner sense of his freedom—his God-ensured liberty. We, as Christian Scientists, have come to know the real man is not in bondage to any material sense of power. Created in the image and likeness of his Maker, given dominion over all things, nothing can cast him down from that high level which is his by divine decree.

"The way out of this maze of discord, strife, unhappiness, destruction, fear, hatred, malice, envy, jealousy, and dishonesty is not to be attained through any material means whatsoever. It is only through spiritual attainments that complete liberation can come. Never forget, when assailed from all sides by evil, that this is purely a state of mental chemicalization, which presages a complete healing for all the world.

"And what was it Jesus said in the twenty-first chapter of Luke's Gospel? 'And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads; for your redemption draweth nigh'."

Mr. Harry Moore is spending a two weeks' vacation with his daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thornton and daughter, Nancy, in Trenton.
