Unless wages are increased, another depression is inevitable, according to Scholle. The C.I.O. viewpoint is that the manufacturer's profits can absorb a 30 per cent wage increase without shifting added labor cost to the consumer in the form of higher prices.

The position of management, of course, is just the reverse. Higher wages mean higher prices, and higher prices only reduce purchasing power.

Thus you arrive at a vicious cycle, the foundation for inflation.

We recently received a statistical table comparing 1945 earnings with 1939 earnings. On a dollar basis, the automobile worker in 1945 received $2,748 compared with $1,611. On a basis of 1939 purchasing power, however, the same automobile worker in 1945 could buy only $2,011 worth of merchandise and services. Assuming a 10 per cent rise in the 1946 cost of living, adjusted to federal taxes, the worker's 1946 purchasing power will be further reduced to $1,977—only some $360 more than he received back in 1939.

Purchasing power cannot be measured by number of dollars.

Management insists that higher wages mean higher prices, thus reducing purchasing power. Labor insists that higher purchasing power must be attained through higher wages, the additional wage being paid out of anticipated "high" profits.

Who is right?

Now it is simple as ABC that both management and labor cannot be right in these contentions which are direct opposites, like night is to day.

It is also apparent that manufacturing industry is not responsible for our good times or our hard times. Manufacturing represents less than 30 per cent of our national economy. The service industry (tourist, for example) and agriculture are equally important; together they far overshadow manufacturing.

Scholle overlooked this significant fact when he told the college professors: "Labor doesn't want to be pulled down to the level of the farmer." Scholle was once a farmer, he said.

The audience gasped at the speaker's brash ignorance of economics.

His statement disturbed us greatly.

What is the answer then?

As we see it, it is simply this.

We must be our brother's keeper, if we are to prosper, if our profit capitalism is to survive, if we are to escape the noose of totalitarian government with its negations of personal liberties.

And that goes for everyone — employer and employee, rich and poor—in all types of life.

If we are to be our brother's keeper, we must understand our fellow men. Love must replace hate.

Here is the very essence of Democracy.

It also is the spirit of Christianity.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

OLD JUDGE: "Hank, you're a big grain producer...let me ask you a question or two?"

HANK: "Glad to have you, Judge."

OLD JUDGE: "Do you think the grain used by distillers is wasted as some folks are saying?"

HANK: "I certainly do Not! As a matter of fact, it is just the opposite."

OLD JUDGE: "How do you figure that, Hank?"

HANK: "From my own experience and from reports I've read. For the year endin' last June, the distillers produced over 1,200,000,000 pounds of distillers' dried grains...the best feed supplements we can lay our hands on. They are rich in nutrients. Why... I've never had such fat dairy cows, livestock and poultry as I have since I've been usin' these dried grains."

OLD JUDGE: "How do you use them, Hank?"

HANK: "I blend them in with original grain. This balanced ration has far greater feed value than the original grain itself. I can cut down on my whole grain feeding about 20% and still get better results."
