Michigan Leads The Way In Manufacturing Field

Most people think of Michigan as the automobile state.

Our fame as car makers is worldwide. . .as it should be.

Michigan manufacturers produce 85 percent of all cars, trucks and other automotive vehicles made in the United States, including the output of their assembly plan operations in other states.

ALL BUT a handful of the major trade names of the American automotive industry designate products made or originated in Michigan.

Michigan is the home of the automotive "Big Three"—Chrysler, Ford and General Motors—as well as the business headquarters for the smaller American Motors Corp.

And it's also the home of Continental Motors of Muskegon, the world's largest manufacturer of internal combustion engines.

While the auto industry is decentralizing its production facilities, to place assembly plants closer to east coast, west coast and southern markets, Michigan continues to be the core area and brain center of the industry. Of the 113 new plants built by auto makers since World War II, 44 were built in Michigan, including executive office headquarters and research and testing laboratories.

Primarily centered in Detroit-motor capital of the world-the automobile industry also reaches into many other Michigan cities. . .the automaking plants in Dearborn, Flint, Lansing, Pontiac, Wayne, Willow Run, Wixom, Kalamazoo. . .and the parts and sub-assembly plants in Grand Rapids, Muskegon, Saginaw, Bay City, Jackson, Port Huron, Ypsilanti and many others.

Famed the world over for our manufacture of motor cars, Michigan is also industrially pre-eminent in scores of other ways.

WE LEAD the nation in the production of cereal foods. . . metalworking machinery. . .mobile homes. . .salt. . .sporting goods. .furniture for public buildings. . .steel springs. . . window shades. . .and many other products. . .and we are the nation's leading builder of ships and pleasure boats.

Our greatest manufacturing industries are those engaged in production of metal products and machinery . . . processed foods. . .chemicals and allied products. . .printed materials and paper products. . .and, of course, transportation equipment, including boats, buses, trucks, tractors, trailers and automobiles.

From our factories come an amazing variety of more than 2,200 manufactured products, which we can proudly label, "Made in Michigan."

We have the world's largest cement plant at Alpena. . .the world's largest concentration of gray iron foundries at Muskegon. . .the largest forge at Detroit. . .the largest book paper mill at Kalamazoo. . .the largest horsehide tannery at Rockford.

We have the nation's No. 1 baby foods plant at Fremont. . .the "Magic Capital of the World" at Colon, whose leading industry is the manufacture of magicians' equipment. . .the nation's only wooden shoe factory at Holland. . .the world's largest factory for making billiard table and bowling alley equipment at Muskegon. . .the world's largest pharmaceutical plant at Kalamazoo.

BAY CITY is rated a major center of the nation's welding machine industry. . .Marquette is the world's chief producer of charcoal briquettes. . .Lansing has been called the nation's production leader in drop forging. . "F.O.B. Detroit" has become an industrial byword around the world.

Recently our industries have moved into the space age with production of Jupiter missiles and Redstone missile boosters at Chrysler's Michigan Ordnance plant near Detroit. . .guided missile destroyers by DePoe Shipbuilding Company at Bay City. . .electronic computers by Burroughs Corporation in Detroit. . .avoinics equipment by Lear, Inc., in Grand Rapids . . .and missiles, communications satellites and upper space weather recording instruments by Bendix Aviation Corporation in Detroit and Ann Arbor.

Election of Leon V. Braknis, 32863 Biddlestone, Farmington, as controller and chief financial officer of American Metal Products Company has been announced by R. Jamison Williams, president.

Mr. Braknis, who has been financial assistant to the president, joinned AMP in 1955 after 12 years as senior accountant with Ernst & Ernst.

Mr. Braknis, who attended the Detroit Institute of Technology, is a member of the Michigan Association of Certified Accountants and the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

WHO PROFITS BY TIGHT MONEY? Bankers? Big Business? The federal government? Guess again. You as a saver! When interest rates to up on loans, lending institutions pay out more interest for the use of your money on deposit. Thus, the people who really benefit most from tight money are the 87 million owners of bank-savings accounts, 40 million people who own U.S. Savings Bonds and the 112 million owners of life insurance.

Conservation Dept. Acts On Cut Back In Planting

The Conservation Commission will act on a recommendation calling for a 50-percent cutback in the Conservation Department's state forest planting program, during its March 10-11 meeting in Lansing.

Pressed by dwindling funds and a manpower shortage, Department forestry officials are proposing that the annual 20,000-acre planting goal, set by the Commission in 1955, be reduced to 10,000 acres. This would save $75,000 in nursery, seeding and other operational costs over a two-year period.

AS PLANNED, the program would continue at its current rate through the 1961 spring planting season when nursery stock presently on hand for state forest plantings would be reduced to the 10,000-acre level.

In another matter, Department officials are recommending that a gift of nearly $1,700 be accepted from the Women's National Farm and Garden Association. If approved, it is further proposed that this money, together with an earlier donation of $1,000 made by the women's group, be used to add 19 acres to Wagner Falls scenic site in Alger county.

Also proposed is the acquisition of small water frontage parcels for public fishing sites on Winnipeg lake, Calhoun county, Bailey lake, Keweenaw county, and Norway City power reservoir, Dickinson county.

PURCHASES of 280 acres and 80 acres are recommended with Pittiman-Robertson monies at Shiawassee River and Maple River state game areas.

Col. Hagerman Attends Guard Course in Kan.

Lt. Colnel Russell A. Hagerman, 29334 Scotten Avenue, Farmington, is among 300 senior commanders and general staff officers from 27 National Guard Divisions presently attending a refresher course at the General Staff College at Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas.

The course is designed to provide refresher training as a unit to commanders and staffs of National Guard Divisions and maneuver area commands, to develop staff teamwork and to instruct in the application of current doctrine. Orientation on related areas such as communications, staff techniques and procedures, army aviation and antiguerrilla operations are also included.

The Commandant of the College, Major General Lionel C. McGarr, delivered the welcoming address at the opening exercises last Monday.

Highlighting the week-long course are addresses by the Commanding General, US Continental Army Command, Fort Monroe, Virginia, General Bruce Clarke, and Major General William W. Quinn, Chief of Information, Department of the Army, Washington, D.C.

Information on State Provided In Mich. Manuel

Throughout the school year thousands of school children write letters to governmental agencies asking for information regarding the State flag, the State flower, the State tree, as well as for facts about Michigan government.

Before and during Michigan Week the flow of letters increase and the Department of State and other governmental units are swamped.

James M. Hare, Secretary of State and Chairman of the Efficiency and Economy Committee, believes much of this effort is needless.

"By law public school libraries and nearly all community and county libraries get a copy of the Michigan Manual each year," Hare pointed out. "This valuable compilation contains many thousands of interesting facts about the Great Lakes State.

Also available in most school, county, and community libraries is a colorful 8 page brochure called "Know Your Michigan", which contains illustrations of the Great Seal and the State Flag, a chronology of significant Michigan dates, and other interesting information.

"Many school children write for a chronology of Michigan history, to ask how our 83 counties were named, for information about Michigan's many boards and agencies, for biographies of public officials, and for the State Constitution. All of these," Hare pointed out, "and thousands of other bits of important and interesting information are in the Michigan Manual."

"The person who said that work well done never needs doing over never weeded a garden."
