ROAD CONTRACTS AWARDED BY G. DONALD KENNEDY

Contract awards totaling more than 35 per cent of the current Federal Aid program for highway construction in Michigan have been made since January 1, it was announced this week by State Highway Commissioner G. Donald Kennedy.

Since the first of the year, Kennedy revealed the department has placed contracts totaling $3,179,867.65. He explained this would be supplemented by an estimated $969,000 in contracts to be let June 18.

Projects upon which work is now in progress under this program include 116 miles of road improvements, 11 bridges, eight culverts, and one grade separation.

Kennedy pointed out that because of the possibility of special national defense appropriations by Congress, the department has not yet released the bulk of its contemplated program.

Said he:

"We are hopeful that congress will take quick action on recommendations for appropriations for military highways. With our strategic network of more than 2,500 miles, I feel sure Michigan will receive a substantial part of any appropriation that Congress makes."

As soon as this appropriation is made, Kennedy stated plans would be rushed to complete this year's construction program.

Planting of 1000 legal size rainbow trout in Swains lake 12 miles southwest of Jackson is recommended by the conservation department's institute for fisheries research on completing a survey of the lake's productive possibilities. The institute advises against opening this lake to cisco netting, and suggests installation of a number of brush shelters in shoal areas to supplement the shelter provided by weed beds.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Burley (Joan Haganson) announce the birth of a daughter, at Highland Park General Hospital.

U. OF M. PLANNING DEFENSE CLASSES IN ENGINEERING

Engineering defense training classes for qualified high school graduates are being planned by the University of Michigan in cooperation with other educational institutions in the State and under the sponsorship of the United States Office of Education.

Cities where courses may be offered include: Mt. Pleasant, Marquette, Kalamazoo, Ypsilanti, Bay City, Flint, Fordson, Ironwood, Grand Rapids, Highland Park, Jackson, Muskegon, and Port Huron. All courses will be given through the University of Michigan Extension Service and under the supervision of the University's College of Engineering.

The program is designed to provide persons who have a high school education and who plan to enter industry with elementary engineering training so they will be prepared to aid in the defense program. Classes are expected to open June 23 for an eight-week session.

The courses which will be emphasized in most centers are: applied mathematics, engineering drafting or descriptive geometry, industrial materials, and shop theory.

The University plans to issue certificates to those students who complete the program satisfactorily, although the work will be given on a noncredit basis. Instructional costs will be paid by the Federal Government. The only cost to students will be for textbooks, drawing instruments and class materials.

MEASLES EPIDEMIC STILL SPREADING

Measles cases reported to the Michigan Department of Health totaled 10,750 in May, bringing the total for the year to 63,922 cases. This is within five per cent of the five-month totals in the epidemic years of 1938 and 1935. In those years 80,000 cases were reported for 12 months.

Some northern areas of the State are just now experiencing the epidemic, says Dr. H. Allen Moyer, State Health Commissioner.

New Conservation Office To Be Dedicated

Joseph P. Rahilly of Newberry, new chairman of the Michigan conservation commission, will formally dedicate the new conservation department local headquarters on Ashmun hill on the afternoon of Saturday, June 14, Roy Hollingsworth, president of the Sault Chamber of Commerce has announced. The Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the dedication services.

Peter Trudell, Jr., of Negaunee, president of the Northern Michigan Sportsmen association, and Hollingsworth also will take part in the dedication program. After sports events in the afternoon, there will be a banquet Saturday evening at which P. J. Hoffmaster, director of the department of conservation, and Paul A. Herbert, president of Michigan United Conservation clubs, will speak.

The new building is to be headquarters for conservation law enforcement in Chippewa county, and headquarters also for heavy forest fire fighting equipment for protection of the eastern end of the county.
