OUR SENATORS ON PROHIBITION.

Our good Senator Ferris is now fairly before the public on the prohibition enforcement question which just at present is quite a lively topic.

The views expressed by the Senator from the pine stump section of the state are not in full accord with those of the senator from that part of Michigan where we have quantity production in automobiles and bandits. As to the existence of a horrible national thirst that cannot be slacked with a beverage containing less than five per cent alcohol, the two senators' views coincide, lap and dovetail nicely, but as to methods of satisfactory enforcement there appears a wide divergence of opinion.

The senator from the interior states that prohibition and the Volstead act can be enforced, but not satisfactorily without the regeneration of a very large number of our citizens who have a hankering of long standing for a beverage with a kick in it like that of a mule.

He voices the opinion that elimination of appetite for alcoholic drink should precede prohibition—just how this might be brought about he does not say. With this happy state a reality he feels confident enforcement could be easily accomplished. According to the way he seems to look at it the American people, in the matter of prohibition, have hitched the cart before the horse and are now experiencing considerable trouble in getting a good start.

As to endorsing the present Volstead act the senator from Detroit "doesn't" while the good senator "does and he don't."

Senator Ferris uncocked his views on this much mooted question in a recent address at Jackson in which he told many truths. The horror of intemperance was illustrated by the story of a man in his neighborhood who drank up two farms, cursed all the family jewelry and bedchambers in for booze and when nothing was left with which to buy liquor, he took to using dope. The good senator, however, failed to enlighten his hearers as to where the poor devil got the money with which to buy the drug.

BUILD FOR THE FUTURE.

"Who builds for the present builds only for the past," has been written of good roads, but is as true of them as of temples and meeting halls. The organization which, knowing it is growing builds only for its present membership, soon finds it has built too small. The "present" which soon comes, brings a membership too big for the building.

The hard road built just big enough, wide enough, strong enough, well enough for to-day's traffic, is built for to-morrow, too, only when it is known that traffic does not cannot grow.

But there are few places where traffic does not grow!

The village of to-day is the thriving town of to-morrow. The town of to-day is the big city of to-morrow, and the big city of the immediate moment becomes the huge city of the next one!

When the Boston Post road was built, no such thing as the "capacity of a road" was known. But to-day, this road, (among many), is strained against its capacity limits most of the time and always on Sundays and holidays. The good roads connecting any two large cities of the nation—Boston and New York, New York and Albany, Baltimore and Philadelphia, Cleveland and Toledo, Chicago and Detroit, to mention only a few, are often inadequate to carry the traffic which seeks them. They do carry the traffic, but at greatly reduced speed, and speed is as much a part of transportation as power.

New roads should always be built for to-morrow; none for to-day. For "to-morrow" soon becomes "to-day," and the road, big enough and to spare for present needs, is speedily used up to its capacity. To paraphrase the quotation, "Only he who builds for the future, builds for the present."

CLARENCEVILLE SCHOOL NOTES

Virginia Geary is a new pupil in the fifth grade.

The Camp Fire Girls made $2.05 at their candy sale Tuesday.

The fifth grade will have a Thanksgiving party next Wednesday afternoon.

The Camp Fire Girls will hold their first council fire Friday night.

Harvey Hasbourn and Evelyn Geary are new members of the kindergarten.

Donald and Leona Geary entered the seventh grade Monday. Their old friends were glad to see them back.

The sixth graders have their new leaflets on languages, and are finding them very helpful.

The final result of the bazaar of the P. T. A. given the first of the month, totalled $111. Part of it will be spent to equip the kitchen for hot lunch work.

The rest will go as a prize payment on a piano for the new building. Some members of the Clarenceville P. T. A. are planning to attend the P. T. A. convention, to be held at Pontiac, the 22nd.

Verla Flick "spelled down" the fourth grade last Friday afternoon.

Raymond Barnum, who has been in the hospital for several months, has returned to school and entered the fourth grade Monday morning.

The fourth-A arithmetic class have been having a race. Mary Aldrich and Edna Wilding were the winners for the past month, having the highest averages. The next highest were Frances Haslett and Metha Jorgensen.

The ninth and tenth grades had a meeting last Friday with the intention of forming a "Vorth White" club. There was some discussion over the name for the club. The question then came up, "what is the purpose of organizing a club?" There were so many different types of activities to be carried out that it was decided to name the club a general name that would cover everything.

Finally, after a discussion it was decided to call it "The Home Economics Club." Officers were then elected as follows: Gerald Gregg, president; Roy Aldrich, vice-president; Dorothy Steerman, secretary; Winifred Chamberlain, treasurer.

The president then took the chair and suggested that something be started right away. Plans were talked over to entertain some orphans. The following week the Michigan State Hospital for children, located in Detroit, was visited and our invitation was heartily accepted for Nov. 21th. A program has been planned and refreshments will be served.

Everybody knows of the illustrious deed of our home town boy Ralph Waack, 13 years old, who saved the life of seven-year-old Ruth Wurtzbacher on the 15th of last March, just after school. Ruth was standing on a log picking pussy-willows along the stream near the school house when she slipped and fell into the water. Ralph saw her from an upstairs window. He ran headlong to the spot, jumped into the creek, which was 8-feet deep, and brought her out safely. Don't forget to vote for Ralph—our home town boy. Help him win the hero prize. Every vote counts.

Institute for Breeding. An institute for the breeding of animals and one for the study of plant production have recently been completed at the University of Gossitsien. The next addition to the fast growing university will be a department for the study of agricultural machines, with an additional professor especially trained to take charge of the new field of work.

Wife. "When do you expect to get into your new house?"

"Well the builders promised it would be ready by November 1 but we have had experience enough not to expect to get into it before March."

Queer Advice.

One of our most highly valued correspondents recently contained an article entitled "Run Your Own Hides." The author, to our surprise, had done his work in Michigan, and they were published from there.

How's Your Battery's Health Today? Maybe you've noticed that it isn't turning the motor over as strong as it might, that it hasn't quite the pep it used to have, that it seems to be just a little 'off its feed'.

That's a signal that your battery needs the kind of attention we give—and probably needs it right away! Never mind if it isn't a Willard. Bring it in anyway. Here at Battery Headquarters we've had experience in fixing all makes of batteries—and we give them all exactly the same attention.

THE MIRACULOUS CHRISTMAS GIFT. It's a very nice thing to make a gift that will please all the members of the family. A bag of candy will do that or a box of fruit. But usually some one in that family gets the lion's share. That is not possible when you give a subscription to The Youth's Companion. It is like that delicious pitcher of milk of the Greeks; though everyone drank deep the pitcher remained full. Everyone has a lion's share in the good things of The Companion; everyone sips his own cream, yet there is his very choicest cream left for the next comer. What better Christmas present can you make than a periodical with such fabulous powers of doing its job as The Youth's Companion?
