THE NEW ENGLANDER . . . This four bedroom modern colonial home has been chosen by Parents' Magazine as its 1966 National Award Winner in the family design category. When you see the New Englander you will notice immediately, the warm welcome extended by the entrance foyer and you will agree this is truly an exciting home! Complimenting the foyer and dramatic living room is the formal dining room - which affords a pleasant view of the 102'x213' grounds situated in beautiful, Lake of the Pines, only 28 minutes from Northland and seconds from a beautiful lake of your own. The house, a traditional New England design, includes a separate laundry center, mud room, a large family room, 2½ ceramic tiled baths with vanities, a dressing room for the master bedroom, large living room, a compactly designed 17x21 beamed all-gas country kitchen, and a double attached garage at the end of a blacktop drive. In keeping with the traditional design, a bay window overlooking the patio and a large brick fireplace make the spacious family room a warm, cheerful area. The home is completely carpeted including the kitchen. Also featured is a full basement with an expansion room for storage or conversion to a workshop. The exterior of Old Homestead Brick and natural siding combined with white aluminum storms and screen touches off the Award Winning design by Scholz.

THIS IS SCHOLZ Design

Oliver Built Homes has built this home with the modern home buyer in mind. The builder has met insulation standards and other requirements to be eligible for the Parents' Magazine award. One of the highlights of this all-gas comfort conditioned home is the central gas heating and air conditioning system by Bryant. This home will be comfortable from -15° to +95°. You will appreciate the silent gas operation of this equipment. Stop out and see how you can enjoy fingertip control for modern, healthful, carefree living in a gas comfort conditioned home.

CAREFREE COOKING . . . Traditional appearance and modern arrangement are blended into the convenience oriented kitchen of the NEW ENGLANDER. This Award winning home features a gas range, double oven, dishwasher, disposal, exhaust fan and spacious working area.
