Honey Won't Spoil

REAL HONEY -- Natural honey has its own built-in preservative to prevent mold and fermentation, according to Michigan State University food specialists. Honey may darken or crystalize when it gets old, but this doesn't hurt it.

Use Floor As Guide

Since it is the largest area in a room, the floor should provide the basic guideline for other furnishings.

If a new floor of resilient tile is planned, The Better Floors Council recommends choosing neutral or muted tones that won't dominate the room.

Burroughs Computer Goes To British PO

The General Post Office of Great Britain has selected a Burroughs B5500 on-line computer system to assist nearly 3,000 scientists and engineers working on diverse projects in four London locations. The system is valued at $1.25 million.

The system is being installed this summer in GPO's Telecommunications headquarters in Gresham Street, London. It will be linked to four research centers in that metropolis.

GPO reported that there are growing demands for computer time from the engineers and scientists who may be working on calculating satellite orbits for trans-Atlantic communications, working on properties of a new micro-circuit, or designing mathematical models to stimulate and optimize telephone networks.

* * *

THE MULTI-PROGRAMMING B5500 system also will provide computer time for researchers working on the latest techniques of postal mechanization, including automatic reading of printed and handwritten addresses.

Nine terminals connected on-line with the B5500 will provide instant computer facilities for the four city activities. Use of the terminals will provide instant printed replies to instructions in each of these offices or for the computer's fast line printer to produce necessary output at Gresham Street headquarters.

The B5500 will handle many different programs on a simultaneous basis from each of the locations while processing a normal workload.

The system's automatic logging and internal accounting will enable Telecommunications headquarters to see that computer time is being shared effectively by the scientists and engineers using it.

C.A. MAY, head of the computer engineering branch of GPO's Telecommunications headquarters said, "This will be our first in-house multi-access computer. It was selected on its merits as an advanced and well proven system for coping economically with a wide variety of complex evaluations with which we are increasingly faced.

"As much as 95 percent of our workload is in the science-oriented high-level language ALGOL, for which the Burroughs software is particularly attractive."

Software will include a desk calculator language, remote compilation facilities and a program library maintenance, all under the supervision of the B5500's Master Control Program which is capable of scheduling as many as 50 programs within the system.

Excess Color Often Spoils Room Planning

Most rooms contain too many colors, according to decorator consultants to the Better Floors Council. This usually happens because furnishing are acquired at different times. As a result, the room is not coordinated in an overall plan.

Since the floor (apart from the ceiling) is the largest area of any room, it should provide the basic guideline for the rest of the furnishings. If a new floor of resilient tile is planned the Council advises using neutral or muted tones that won't dominate the room.

For easy floor upkeep, off-white and medium shades in textured patterns or mottled colors of vinyl asbestos tile need the least amount of care. A daily sweep with a broom or mop and occasional washing and waxing are all that will be needed for tip-top appearance.

After establishing the floor tone, pick up this color or a closely related one for the walls. The room will look larger if walls and trim are the same color. For upholstered pieces, choose colors that are either complementary (red and green, blue and orange) or neighboring (orange and yellow, red and pink, blue and aqua).

Leaflet Explains Vinyl Tile Care

A leaflet on the care of vinyl asbestos tile floors has just been published by The Better Floors Council. Single copies are available without charge in the United States from BFC headquarters at 101 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017.
