Chicago architect to speak at LIT

The Lawrence Institute of Technology Architecture Series will present Lawrence O. Booth, noted Chicago architect, on Thursday, March 25 at 7:30 p.m.

Booth will present, "Synthesis of a Gentle Architecture," exploring the need to change the architectural focus from "monuments to the architect" to "places which feel comfortable to those who use them."

The presentation, open to the public at no charge, will be held in the architecture auditorium on the LIT campus, 21000 West Ten Mile Road (near Northwestern Hwy.) in Southfield.

A principal in Booth/Hanson & Associates, Booth has received many awards for his residence and building designs.

These have included: The Architectural Record Houses Award, in 1975, 1976, 1978 and 1980; the Distinguished Building Award of the Chicago American Institute of Architects in 1969, 1970, 1975, 1976 and 1979; and National AIA awards in 1975 and 1978.

He is best known for such projects as Fox House, Magnuson Residence, The Atrium Townhouses, the Barr Residence, and the rebuilding of the Museum of Contemporary Art in Chicago and Goodman Theatre/Art Institute of Chicago.

Booth is a graduate of Stanford University and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

In addition to his architectural work, he is also a sculptor and is very active in art and architecture organizations in the Chicago area.
