

INSIDE ANGLES

HATS OFF to the staff and students at Farmington High School. Thanks to their quick fund-raising efforts, six mentally retarded students from the school will attend the state Special Winter Olympics at Sugar Loaf in Traverse City next week.

The six were selected to attend the annual event but because of sluggish state revenues, an $88 fee per student was set.

While special education teacher Sue Kissinger tried to think up a fund-raising event, the plight of her six students became the concern of several other groups.

Various clubs and staff raised $500 in time to send the half-dozen special athletes off for three days.

FARMINGTON PLACE, the newest apartment building in the city, is in need of donations of dishes for its community kitchen and fabrics and lace for classes taught to arts and crafts students there.

Call 478-8544 to donate goods to Farmington's new senior citizens residence.

NUMERO UNO, that's what Our Lady of Mercy High School's pom pom girls have proved themselves to be.

The class A squad beat out 18 other schools Saturday at a statewide competition at Grand Blanc High School for the first-place trophy and championship title.

The competition was sponsored by the Mid-Michigan Point-Pom Camp. It was the second year of the contest and the first year Mercy participated.

The squad also won first place in an earlier competition this year sponsored by the Catholic

League schools and took three out of four trophies in a competition at Hazel Park.

BUYING A HOME? Don't miss a free homebuyers seminar Feb. 18 at the downtown branch Farmington Library.

It's sponsored by the library and Real Estate One.

Capacity is 80 persons, so pre-registration is required. Call 474-7770 at least two days before the seminar.

It begins at 7:15 p.m.

CALLING ALL KIDS The Farmington Community Library, 12 Mile east of Farmington Road, has an afternoon of goodies planned Feb. 15 from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

That's when the library staff is dedicating its new children's wing, which boasts such fancy attractions as a one-room schoolhouse and a puppet theater.

Sunday's program includes music by the Farmington Musicales and a puppet show by Darrel Hildebrandt, who has performed on the Muppet Show.

The afternoon is sponsored by the Farmington Friends of the Library.

VICTORIA STATION is the place, Feb. 18 at 11:30 a.m. is the time. That's when the Women of North Farmington will gather for lunch and hear speakers from the Farmington Advisory Council.

The price is $7. Reservations must be made by Monday. Call Gail at 553-8480 or Irene at 553-0465.

KUDOS TO ROY J. RUSSELL & ASSOCIATES of Farmington Hills who were honored recently by the Michigan Society of Planning Officials for "meritorious planning projects designed in Michigan."

The company was cited for its planned residential district development, designed for the A.J. Macksey Co., also of Farmington Hills.

The 72-acre development is on the south side of Nine Mile at Drake Road. In giving the award, the jury noted, "The contribution of the planning firm and the developer was even more remarkable when contrasted with the sprawl and patchwork zoning within this area of Farmington."

Three other Michigan planning concerns were honored.

AMERICAN HISTORY Month is being observed this February by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The DAR is sponsoring an essay contest for children. The title this year is "A Military Leader of the Battle of Yorktown."

For more information, call the DAR Quakertown branch person contact, Zelma Dolph, 534-1086.

IT'S EARLY to think about soccer while there's snow on the ground, but it's not too early to register for the Great Lakes Women's Soccer League summer season, which runs from Memorial Day to Labor Day.

The league is for senior women and is affiliated with the Michigan Soccer Association and the U.S. Soccer Federation.

Last year, the league's second year of existence, 12 teams from Ann Arbor to Detroit to Union Lake battled for first place.

There are two divisions; each team is limited to 18 players. Registration is going on until April 14. Phone Paula Hoekster, league vice president, at 360-1099.
