The Man With the Hoe Says—

Grow a vegetable garden no matter how little space you have. Even a 10 foot square will produce as much radishes, lettuce, spinach and carrots as a family of four can consume, and twice this area is large enough to take seriously.

Plan for succession crops (one after the other in the same row) and companion crops (sown in same row, one to mature and be eaten before the other). This procedure will double and even treble the yield.

Crime can never go unpunished, since the punishment of crime lies in the crime itself.—Seneca.
