MORE THAN 16,000 PEOPLE USED STATE GROUP CAMPS

Lansing, Dec. 16—More than 16,000 people used group camps provided at nine of the state's parks during the past season, a considerable increase over the previous year.

The group camps are used largely by organizations of boys and girls, who are given free use of the camp buildings for periods of from one day to two weeks.

Alfalfa in Olden Days

Many who grow alfalfa do not realize that this forage plant furnished the crop on which ancient kings in the orient fed their chariot horses and that it was responsible for the high wheat yields of ancient Babylonian farmers.
