De Tour No Detour, Residents Insist

De Tour, a romantic and historic village sitting on the north shore of Lake Huron, at the mouth of the St. Mary's River was formerly called "Detour"—to the dismay of postal clerks and tourists.

Frequently mail clerks, noting only the first three letters, would route the mail to Detroit, raising havoc with mail service. But the tourist unfamiliar with the country, was the true sufferer. Coming on a guide post reading: "Detour——miles," the poor tourist would turn off the right road and ramble for miles before some native of the region would set him right. Now mileposts read "Village of De Tour——miles."

De Tour derived its name from the Indian word "Gwideonaning," meaning "to turn" because vessels coming from any direction from the lower lakes had to make a sharp turn to enter the St. Mary's River at this point.

In 1928 De Tour made national news when for 23 days it was closed to the outside world on account of huge drifts of snow blocking all roads coming into the village. After 13 days without mail the United States government sent planes to bring in mail and provisions, and after another week of plowing with ten-ton tractors, the roads were opened.

At The Redford Theatre

"Submarine Patrol," a much better than average adventure picture with a better than average love affair thrown in, comes to the Redford Friday through Monday. The story concerns the activity of a submarine chaser during the World War. Like the other craft in the "splinter fleet," it is a frail, wooden ship poorly armed, but fast and capable of running down submarines and blowing them up.

Richard Greene plays the rich ne'er do well who becomes an officer on the ship. He falls in love with a captain's daughter, (Nancy Kelly) but her father opposes the affair. After Greene has demonstrated his worth on the sub-chaser, the captain sees things differently.

In demonstrating his worth, Greene an' his crew do some sensational maneuvering in convoying a munitions ship, and later on in chasing and sinking a submarine. Nancy Kelly is the much ballyhooed 17 year-old to whom a five year contract was given after she had taken only a few screen tests.

On the same days "The Shining Hour" is at the Redford. In it are Joan Crawford, Margaret Sullavan, Robert Young and Melvyn Douglas. It is the story of a country gentleman who marries a chorine and takes her back to the Wisconsin estate of which his sister is the matriarch. The result is just too much conflict for words.

How Fish Can Live In Frozen Lakes

Danger of last week's blizzard causing conditions which might have lead to winter-kill of fish were largely averted by the high wind that accompanied the snow. Although the amount of snow which fell was sufficient to create serious conditions if lasting for any prolonged period, the wind kept it from piling up on the lakes.

Winter-kill occurs when snow covers the ice in sufficient quantity and for a long enough time to shut off the sunlight from oxygen producing vegetation in the water. This interruption, in the extreme, results in a depletion of the oxygen supply below the point needed to sustain fish life.

THREE MILE STEEL FENCE

New, York.—The physical construction of the New York World's Fair has so progressed that a steel fencing nine feet high and a total length of three miles is being erected to enclose the central exhibit area, more than 389 acres in extent. This has become necessary for the proper protection of the $900,000 Administration Building, almost completed, the 500 shade trees already transplanted in the landscaping of the grounds, which will include 10,000 trees of all species; and the bridges and avenues which are being built in this section.
