Ski Heil

By

BILL CAMERON

This was to have been my last ski column of the season but I've decided to give it one more shot. But in order to squeeze in one more, I need your help!

I'd like to know where you've been skiing this year. Where is your favorite ski area? Do you take the kids with you? Do you go with a group or independently? What time of year do you prefer?

I'm entertaining some ideas about writing a story for one of our national ski magazines and I need some answers to the questions above. Just drop me a card, mail to 14255 Stark Rd., Livonia.

This has been a disastrous season for me personally. I never dreamed I'd end up with a total of two days (closer to six hours) on skis. Who would have thought I'd never even make one trip to Boyne Country? And for the first time in eight years, no European Trip!

I've been trying to sort out the reasons. The most obvious of course, is time. Putting together plans for five indoor tennis courts at the Livonia Family Y takes an extra amount of time. Thank goodness it's now a reality.

Another obvious reason has been the weather. I'm like any other skier; I can't get too excited about the sport when all I see is rain or mud. Who wants to drive north for four hours and not find any snow? The last sentence really gets to the heart of the problem.

I detest driving! Put me on a plane or a train and I'll go anywhere, but the thought of tackling expressway traffic leaves me cold. Weekend skiing is no longer my thing. Maybe it's old age catching up to me or maybe a simple case of boredom. I've definitely lost something this year, something very important. Maybe I'll never recapture it, but then again one should never give up searching.

It's inconceivable to think that anyone who has experienced the excitement and beauty and happiness of skiing would ever give it up. Maybe a season off is for the better. It gives you time to reflect on the past and how fortunate you've been. Those happy days will return. All good things come to he who waits.
