Timely Tips on GARDENING

By Betty Frankel

Winter lingers on and the gardener can do little yet but dream and plan. Now is the time to get some of those plans down on paper so that when planting time comes you will know just what to plant in the vegetable garden, how to renovate the perennial bed, or how to landscape the new property.

The vegetable garden will produce a higher yield and will be a greater success and satisfaction if a schematic planting plan is made. Look through the catalogs and note the new improved varieties that are being offered. Often times a shorter time span from planting to picking, as well as improved flavor and form. When making the plan allow adequate space between rows. Nothing is gained by crowding. Yields are decreased and garden maintenance is hampered. Also plan to follow early crops with a later planting.

PLANS CAN be made now for perennial and annual flower beds. Some gardeners favor the long-popular, English-garden-type mixed border that presents a continuous succession of bloom throughout the growing season. Tall, spikey flowers provide background accent, medium height plants fill the center area, and low plants form a ribbon of color along the front edge of the border.

More and more landscape planners are favoring a geometrically planned garden area that complements the simplicity of modern architecture. Planting areas are sharply defined rectilinear spaces that dove-tail with paved sitting areas. More emphasis is placed on pattern and texture. Beds are frequently massed with a single variety of plant for dramatic color emphasis.

WHETHER YOUR predilection is for the comfort of a conventional garden, or the stimulation of a modern one, a garden is an "experience". As James Rose, the eminent landscape architect, says a garden must be regarded as a "space to be experienced". It is a sort of spacial sculpture. If it is successfully planned it captures a feeling of infinity and serves as a frame of reference which will make our perception of nature more acute.

REMINDERS: New home owners will find it stimulating and helpful to look at plantings in established neighborhoods. Notes can be made of those that are pleasing and of interesting plant combinations. Rhododendron and other broadleaved evergreen, especially those on north-eastern exposures may need protection from the strong sun and high winds of late March. A canvas screen or wood-slat whelter will serve the purpose. Trunks of newly planted trees should be wrapped in kraft paper, or even in heavy foil, to prevent moisture loss before the roots have become established. A bit of Spring can be brought indoors by forcing Forsythia, flowering quince, and other branches of Spring-flowering trees and shrubs.

Bill Elsea Advances At Missouri School

Bill Elsea, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. D. Elsea, 28424 W. Eight Mile Rd., Farmington, is among a number of first year cadets at The Kemper School, Boonville, Mo., advanced to Phase II New Cadet in an order directed by The Rev. Samuel D. West, president and headmaster.

Cadets are advanced to Phase II on the basis of conduct, attitude, and efficiency. They are recommended for the advancement by their senior cadet officers, subject to approval of the school commandant and the president.

AMONG THOSE attending the annual art exhibit at the Ten Mile School recently were Ellen Mara, left and her father, Anthony Marra, 32133 Loomis, Farmington. Mrs. Rose DeLong, teacher at the Ten Mile School, observes their progress with clay. Mr. Marra, assistant principal at Clarenceville Senior High School, along with other parents in attendance, was invited to participate in the various art projects offered the children.

MSU Is First Choice For College-Bound Students

A second and much larger group of students has been accepted by the universities and colleges throughout Michigan. The would-be collegians, first mentioned in the January 21 issue of the Blue & White, are now increased by 30.

Michigan State University heads the list of schools for college-bound students. Those accepted at State include Bob Backoff, Diane Burt, Barry Campbell, Ron Clark, Jim Davidson, veterinary medicine, Ed Iseri, Sharon Kinsel, Linda Layton, Melissa Neal, and Sue Rabaugh. Ed Iseri has also been accepted at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Accepted at Michigan State University Oakland are Virginia Maattala and Kathie Pyorola — specialized education.

Farmington Senior High is sending six students to the University of Michigan. These include John Anderson, Harvey Chapman — business administration, Dick Larry, Bob Schmidt — business administration, or law, Dick Sider — science, and Gary Weaver. John Anderson has also applied to Cornell.

Michigan Institute of Mining and Technology has accepted Ray Bergeron — metallurgical engineering and Dave Crause — engineering.

Students going to Western Michigan University are Bruce Ellis—industrial arts and Linda Thomas.

Alma has accepted Barbara Mapley and Mike Hamilton — speech education or social work.

Dave Frederick — secondary education, and Martha Hessler have been accepted at Wittenberg in Ohio.

Al Watson will go to Detroit Business Institute, Vicky Nielson to the University of Miami in Florida, Bill Marler to Ferris, and Bob Rumford to Wayne.

All of these students have been accepted at the colleges named. Some of them, however, may go to other schools.

Vogue Club Has Fashion Show

Teenage clothes, both boys and girls, and women's wearing apparel will be featured at the Vogue Club Spring Fashion Show March 29 at 7:00 in the Senior High Auditorium.

Tickets are $.75 for children and adults and may be purchased from any Vogue Club member. There will be many valuable door prizes awarded and refreshments will be served after the show.

The clothes which the girls and women will wear have been donated by Harvi's at the Farmington Plaza and the men's fashions are from Royal's, also at the Plaza.

THE SENIOR girls who have been chosen to model are Ann Ridings, Sharon Bayley, Barbara Lord, Diane May, Vicki Neilson, Jackie Lewis, Loretta Beech and Nancy Lampe. Jeannine Dufault will commentate the show. The girls will have their hair styled free of charge by Rudy of Bel-Lyn Studios in the shopping center at 14 Mile and Middlebelt.

John Anderson, Jack Atchison, Gary Tinkle, Ron Ellis, and Tom Guy will model the men's clothes and Linda Brown's mother and Vicki Neilson's mother will war the women's fashions.

Cheerleaders Try for Squad

Twenty five sophomores and juniors who survived the first elimination will compete for a place on the 1960-61 cheerleading squad at the final tryouts Monday, March 28.

Almost 50 hopefuls turned out for one of the first practices where the group was taught basic jumps, motions, and stunts by this year's cheerleaders. The field was narrowed to 25 last Thursday.

Tryouts will be judged by Mr. Humble, Miss Pieron, Miss Reynolds, cheerleading advisor, Carol Dustin, Student Council president, John Anderson, Varsity Club president, and the graduating cheerleaders, Pat Cobb, Marcia Marsh, Lorrie Loomis, and Margie Lam. Six cheerleaders and one or two alternates will be chosen.

FHS Students Invest Funds

Not all boys at FHS are saving their money for cars. Bob Gillam, Dave Beall and Carter Billiu have discovered another hobby just as interesting and perhaps more profitable—the stock market.

Bob Gillam was first interested at an early age by his father who is a broker. However, he was not able to purchase any stock for himself until two years ago. Since then he watches the market closely, and whenever his stock goes up he immediately sells it and buys some new stock which he hopes will also go up. He is presently invested in the Phillips Oil Company.

DAVE BEALL purchased his first stock six months ago, and went all out. Already he owns stock in Standard Oil of New Jersey, General Instrument, Dow Chemical, General Telephone and Electronics, and U.S. Vitamin. His father had owned stock before and Dave caught his enthusiasm from him. Even now he is making plans for buying more.

Carter Billiu has just recently bought some Excello stock. His father was the one who had interested him also.

All three boys have to use their own money, so each one realizes the risks in playing the market. Their advice for all prospective stock holders is, "Consult a broker and remember the stock market is never a sure thing." Dave Beall also added, "Don't become involved if you want to make money."

Students Going To Wayne Play

Forty-six members of the French I and French II classes will take a theatrical voyage Thursday, March 24 as they go to Wayne State University's production of "A Trip Abroad." This play is the English translation of "Le Voyage de Monsieur Perrichon" by Labiche and Martin.

This play is not only comedy but also farce. However, there is more to the story than just comedy. Labiche, the real author, (Martin's name was added to give the play prestige) exemplified the idea that the average man enjoys socializing more with people whom he benefits rather than with people who benefit him.

You haven't really enjoyed an evening out on the town until you've seen the Jaycee Show "Runnin' Wild!" Tickets for March 25th and 26th are going . . . going. . . almost gone! If you don't have your ticket yet, get in touch with any member of the Jaycees now. Members in Bel-Aire are: Bob and Doris Baker, Bob and Doris Brayton, Barney and Ona Charboneau, Dave and Rosemary Fitzpatrick, Bob and Pat Hall, Lloyd and Mary Ann Hoppel, Al & Shirley Horner, Al and Helen Kenneron, Jack and Noreen Martin, Don and Pat Niehaus, Ralph and Mary Lou Parnum, Lee and Pat Ratliff, Chuck and Ruth Shandor, Don and Gloria Shuster, Jim and Phyllis Smolinski, or Earl and Millie Whaley.

REMEMBER . . . when you support the Jaycee show by buying a ticket, you are actually contributing your money for the local park and playground. The proceeds will go to benefit our children and give us all a better equipped park!

Girl Scout of Jaycee-sponsored Troop 116, under the leadership of Mrs. M. Macilvaine, will be available for babysitting for the nights of the show and for any other evenings you may need reliable help. The Scouts are experienced, dependable girls who are trying to earn money to go to summer camp. For babysitting services call Mrs. Macilvaine at GR. 4-5482.

Proudly announcing the arrival of a little girl are Ken and Kay Ockerman of Lamar. Janet Gail weighed 6 lbs. 10 ozs. when she announced herself on March 5. Pretty pleased about their new sister are Grégory, 8, Kenny, 7, JoAnn, 3½, and Sandra, 2. Mrs. Velma Duncan, Kay's mother from Avon Park, Florida, flew up from the sunny South just to get acquainted with her new granddaughter.

A formal tea on Sunday, March 13, was the first social planned by the Blue Bird troop under the leadership of Mrs. Verna Kulbaba. The Blue Birds, who are Junior Campfire girls, handled all the preparations. They baked cookies, served their mothers, and performed songs they had learned. The tea was held at the home of Mrs. B. Allen who originated the Blue Bird troop in September.

One of the highlights of the tea was the presentation of troop pins to all the girls—Susan Allen, Debbie Brenz, Marsee Carlson, Ellen Kearney, Janice Kulbaba, Meg Girardot, Karen Savelly, Donna Penn, Mary Ann and Charlene Hoppel and Nancy Moss.

Last Thursday the troop gave a puppet show and sang at the Dunckel Junior High for the Blue Bird's 50th Jubilee celebration. The girls made their own puppets and theatre and gave a grand performance. Many more activities are being planned for the Blue Bird Troop by leader Mrs. Verna Kulbaba and co-leader Mrs. Betty Penn.

CAPPY GOLTRA of Beacon was hostess at a recent Tupperware party demonstrated by Carole Thompson. Neighbors who spent the evening in a buying mood were Pat Thoresen, Connie McLain, Bev. Petty, Elaine Wendrick, Mae Rosen, Nadine Randall and Chris Carlson.

Thanks from Brownie Troop 36, leader, Mrs. Mary Lynott and co-leader Mrs. Betty O'Connor go to committee mothers Mrs. Pat Wilson, Mrs. Donna Keeler, Mrs. Barbara Wolff and Mrs. Kay Wilson who so generously assisted the Brownies in their recent activities. New troop members Mary Habicht and Joyce Redwood were invested at the meeting last March held at the home of Mrs. Kay Wilson of Loomis. Invested as Committee Mothers were Mrs. Donna Keeler and Mrs. Elaine Bell.

The weather has been perfect for skiing—so say Elaine and Shirley Ford of Delano who recently spent as much time as possible on the slopes at Hidden Valley in Otsego.

ON MARCH 10 it was reported that Girl Scout Troop 819 had been given hyacinth bulbs by Mrs. June Davis. This was correct but to give credit where credit is due. . . the bulbs were very generously donated to the Scouts by Mr. J. Rodan of Lelane, owner of Growers Exchange, Inc.

It was pinochle night at Marilyn Dewar's recently. Walking off with the prizes after an evening of chatting, cards and tunabargers were Jean Suttoh 1st prize, Polly Berry, 2nd, and Shirley Niepoth, 3rd.

Visiting for a week at the Shires' home on Loomis is Mrs Mrs. Mabel Shires from Chicago. Having their grandmothe visit for a while is a real treat for Don, Jill and Jeff.

Board Disapproves

Members of the Township Planning Board, at their meeting March 15, carried a motion recommending disapproval of a proposed multiple housing unit at Waldron and Independence, an area of single family dwellings.

Approve Application For School Funds

Approval was given to the application under the National Defense Education Act in the amount of $18,650.21 at the regular meeting of the Clarenceville Board of Education.

This does not mean, however, that the district would be eligible for this amount of money which would include both local and Federal funds. It does mean, though, that the district would be eligible for a minimum of $13,000.

Don't Overdo It

It's a fact: Roberta Hershey, nutritionist at Michigan State University, says modern science is proving that a young child may get too much Vitamin D. That overdose can interfere with growth and appretite. Vitamin D is important to help bones and teeth, but four hundred units a day is usually enough for a young child.
