Consumers & Edison Announce Electrical Power System Plan

Consumers Power Company and The Detroit Edison Company have entered into a mutual system-strengthening program which will coordinate and reinforce electric power resources throughout the Lower Peninsula of Michigan.

The two companies supply electricity to most of the state's 7,800,000 people, as well as heavy demands of industry, commerce and agriculture.

Each of the companies is among the 10 largest electric utility companies in the United States.

MICHIGAN'S present electric power resources, with a total capacity of about 8,000,000 kilowatts, are unexcelled anywhere in the world.

The new Consumers-Edison program for maximum coordination of their power systems is aimed at the fullest and most productive use of one of our state's greatest industrial assets.

The plan is simply the extension of a long-standing endeavor on the part of both Detroit Edison and Consumers Power to achieve the lowest possible operating and capital costs. It does not in any sense represent a merging of the two companies. Each company will continue to be responsible for the service and service policies in the area it serves.

IT IS TO BE emphasized that interconnections as such are by no means a novelty in this area. The first inter-tie was made as early as 1928, and for many years there have been three high-capacity, high-voltage links between Consumers and Detroit Edison — The Monroe-Erie connection below Monroe, the Ypsilanti-Jackson tie near Ann Arbor, and the Flint-Lapeer tie in the northern Thumb area.

The interconnection concept has demonstrated its value here in our state. Besides Consumers and Detroit Edison's facilities, those of the municipal system of Detroit, the cities of Lansing and Holland, the Edison Sault Electric Company and Ford Motor Company, already are available for power interchange. Each of these systems may draw upon or contribute to the over-all power supply whenever necessary.

In addition, since 1953, there have been two major interconnections with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, Canada. Through the Canadian inter-ties, hydroelectric energy is received when available from the Ontario system, which in turn is supplied from time to time with power from steam-electric generating plants on the American side.

These interchanges have proven most advantageous in times of local peak or emergency demand, and have been mutually beneficial in improving operating economy for the systems involved.

THE PROGRAM will require substantial construction of new extra-high-voltage transmission lines as the demand for electric energy continues to increase.

The agreement also calls for coordinated planning in the location and construction of new electric generating facilities. These will be placed at the point most strategic with respect to the total interconnected electric pool area. Thus, one new plant will serve where two otherwise would have to be built at a greater capital cost.

It is important that new generators installed to serve the entire coordinated system can be large in size — and hence most highly efficient. Studies are now in progress to determine when and where the next generating unit will be installed to meet the load growth of the two systems.

The feasibility of interconnecting with other power pooling areas will be studied carefully.

The practicality of a "pumped storage" project which would be located on the shore of Lake Michigan near Ludington has been established. Here, water would be pumped from the lake into a reservoir at an elevation of 300 feet above the lake during the night hours when power demand is relatively low. Then, to meet peak demands during daytime, the water would be discharged back into Lake Michigan through hydroelectric generating units. The appropriate time for construction of this project will be decided on the basis of studies now underway.

THE CHANGING economics related to nuclear energy will be carefully considered when future new generating capacity is needed.

It is the opinion of both companies that this now agreement assures Michigan, its people and its industries of an abundant present and future supply of electric power at reasonable cost. The plan will be a most important contribution to the social and economic well-being of our state.

It is especially significant that the program will be financed entirely with investor funds and will be accomplished without depending upon our government for financial assistance. Instead, it will help by bearing its full and impressive share of the tax burden required to support our local, state and federal governments.

Pair Open New Office Locally

Former Farmington Township Police officer, R. L. "Bud" Thomas of 26932 Tuck Road has joined Dave Lund as an agent of the Nationwide Insurance Companies of Columbus, Ohio.

Lund and Thomas have just recently opened offices at 25321 Plymouth Road in Livonia.

THOMAS BRINGS to the partnership a varied background which includes, in addition to the 5½ years he served with the Township Police Department, several years of selling experience and two years of business administration training at Wayne State University.

He is married to the former Christine Hickey, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Holten Hickey reside at 35020 Nine Mile Road in Farmington. They have one son, Jeffrey, 18 months old.

LUND IS familiar to many Farmington residents as a long-time resident who now resides with his wife, Sharon, at 15940 Doris Street in Livonia.

He is a graduate of Farmington Senior High School and attended Lawrence Institute of Technology and DeVry Technical Institute in Chicago.

Lund has been associated with the Nationwide Insurance Company for some time now as their agent in the Farmington area.

FARMINGTON AREA women, long active in the Planned Parenthood movement in Michigan, can now take advantage of a newly established clinic in Oakland County for group meetings and counseling service. Mrs. Eliot F. Robinson (seated) and Mrs. Glenn Wilson, Board members of the Planned Parenthood League, Inc. are shown above in the organization's new quarters in the Elizabeth Duffield Memorial Clinic, 212 Daines Street, Birmingham.

Planned Parenthood League to Open Clinic

On January 20 from 3 to 5 p.m., the Planned Parenthood League, Inc., will hold its formal opening of their new Elizabeth Duffield Memorial Clinic located at 212 Daines Street, Birmingham.

Mrs. Duffield was an active community leader and a long time friend of Planned Parenthood, and it was through her efforts that many people in the Oakland County community lent active support to this program. The new Birmingham clinic will be the only clinic in Oakland County and will be open every day.

THE PURPOSE OF the Planned Parenthood organization is "to contribute to the improvement of physical and emotional health of the family by medically approved birth control methods to married women".

The clinic will offer patients child spacing, medical referral for childless couples, practical guidance for couples about to be married, support of research to develop intelligent child spacing methods, and a Speaker's Bureau for lay and professional groups. It will also provide educational work in the community as to the need for family planning and will cooperate with social agencies as to the best planning for a family. Patients will be charged a fee on a sliding scale depending on income and number of children. No one will be turned away because of inability to pay.

Will Catalog Own Books for School

The Farmington Schools will be cataloging its own books for the library at the new East Junior High School now under construction as the result of action taken by the Board of Education at its regular meeting Monday night.

Acting on the recommendation of the administration, the Board approved the hiring of a clerk to assist the appointed librarian in doing this. Previous practice has been to buy the books pre-cataloged.

Supt. G. V. Harrison pointed out that since books would be purchased in large quantities he felt that substantial savings in discounts could be realized.
