

Guts, Patriotism Shown By Voters

By LIZ WISSMAN

FARMINGTON There are people who don't vote even when they can ride to the polls in a car.

Then there are people who vote even if they have to go to the polls in a wheelchair.

FIVE PERSONS from the Oak Hill Nursing Home at Gill and Grand River made an arduous trip down Grand River in their wheelchairs on Tuesday just so they could exercise their right to vote.

The success of the undertaking was a joint effort of the nursing home staff, Farmington City Clerk Elizabeth Brines, the Farmington-West Bloomfield League of Women Voters, some Farmington city policemen and the Farmington DPW staff.

This does not include the teenage sons and daughters of LWV members who pushed the wheelchairs over ridge and rut from the nursing home to city hall.

HANDICAPPED PERSONS riding the wheelchairs were Tom Adams, Don Wardwell, Joyce Leighton, Marilyn Hodges and Mary Lou Green.

Under law, a person who cannot operate a voting machine for himself has to have witnesses, a Democrat and a Republican, when the lever is pulled for him.

Knowing this, Mrs. Brines contacted the LWV which made the arrangements for witnesses. The league also arranged for the transportation down Grand River.

When the first three from the home arrived at City Hall they had to be lifted up the steps by members of the police force.

By the time the last two came to vote, the DPW had built a ramp up the steps.

Mrs. Brines had visited the home some time before the election to register those patients who wanted to vote. Through some mixup, absentee ballots for the patients who had

And so began the trek down Grand River. According to Pearl Cartwright, bookkeeper at the home who helped arrange things, "They were just grateful to be able to go down and vote, no matter how they had to get there."

Schedule 'Non-Retreat'

FARMINGTON On Aug. 15 and 16, women in the Oakland County area will have an opportunity to meet and talk with others who are interested in the new women's rights movement.

A "Women's liberation non-retreat" will be held at the farm home of Carol Andrews, 10990 Bigelow, near Davisburg. Those who wish to stay overnight are encouraged to bring their own sleeping bags.

Contributions will be accepted from participants to defray the cost of simple meals during the two-day session. Volunteers, preferably males, are being sought to provide a ride care for those who need to be free from home responsibilities in order to attend.

A child care center in Pontiac will also be available for this purpose. Transportation from Pontiac will also be available for those who need it.

Interested participants and volunteers may call 625-3056 for more detailed information.

DETERMINED - Because he wanted to be sure to cast his vote on election day, Tom Adams was pushed in his wheelchair from the Oak Hill Nursing Home at Grand River and Gill to Farmington City Hall. He was met at City Hall by Mrs. William Moore, of the Farmington-West Bloomfield League of Women Voters, and Jules Mehay, City Hall custodian, who assisted Adams up the steps. (Evert photo)

wood creek farms

Jim and Helen O'Brien drove to Pennsylvania to visit their former neighbors, Jim and Loreta Wanick. They left here July 22 and spent the first night there in the Wanick's very delightful 13th floor penthouse.

The next day they were shown the historic sights of that old city before driving to the boat house in the Poconos where they enjoyed three days.

Jim Wanick designed this boat house on Porter Lake for a private club of 45 members. They had a big party for 8000 before last with couples coming from Milwaukee and Madison, Wis., and Chicago.

MARGARET AND CLARK KRUSE keep up their busy pace. They had a big party for 8000 before last with couples coming from Milwaukee and Madison, Wis., and Chicago.

Purpose of the gathering was for newcomers in their state college to meet their managers and other fellow workers. And Margaret does all the work herself!

Leslie Druse and Lenne Owen were out on their mini-bikes one evening recently when our very bad roads proved too much for Leslie and she was thrown to the ground. Chuck Owen helped rush her to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia where she was stitched up and bandaged up.

Bit it didn't keep her from going to Arrowhead Camp in Mio. In spite of the bandages, she is having a very enjoyable time.

VERN KORS ENTERED his boat in the Alpena race and enjoyed the event tremendously.

The two Kors children, Kevin and Colleen, went out to Minong, Wis., for a week's visit with their grandparents. On their return Kevin left for a week at Boy Scout Camp, and both Kevin and Colleen leave tomorrow for YMCA Camp near Holly.

I am very happy to be able to report that Jerry Kiger came home from the hospital Tuesday and she is recovering very well from her operation.

And Alger Clark had a busy week a week ago Thursday. Howard Moore, son of his former wife, Deulah, flew here with his wife and three children from their home in San Antonio, Tex.

Howard has a sister living here in Farmington, and his wife has a brother in Grosse Pointe. They enjoyed their week in Wood Creek but had to fly home a week ago Friday.

Floral Park News

By E.R. PHILLIPS, 474-6575

We were very sorry to hear of the death of Walter G. Rutenber of 23169 Violet. Our sincerest sympathies are extended to his family.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mahoney, Tom Jr., Debbie and Kathleen enjoyed their annual three-week vacation at their summer camp near Killarney, Ont., on the north shore of Georgian Bay.

They had excellent fishing, good swimming and relaxation and returned July 31. The Mahoneys reside at 22751 Lilac.

Recent newcomers to Floral Park are Mr. and Mrs. Michael Bojanzky, who are residing in the home at 31109 Shawassee.

Bojanzky formerly resided in Livonia and is a teacher in a Southfield public school. Mrs. Bojanzky is from Farmington and is employed as a nurse.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kidd and sons Gary and David of 31005 Shiawassee, enjoyed a week of fishing and swimming and relaxing at the Rowley Resort on the Au Sable river. They say it was a pleasure.

Their daughter Linda, who was married last March to Brian Sherman of Lebanon, Pa., is now living in that city where Rev. Sherman is a Baptist minister with his own church.

We were sorry to hear of the death of Earl F. Currie, of 23135 Floral, recently. Our sympathies go to his family.
