

YOUTH CENTER — Contracts have been signed and construction will start soon on a cultural and youth center in Farmington Township. The Labor Zionist Institute says contracts have been signed with DeMare Brothers, Inc. for construction of the building to be located on Middle Belt between 12 and 13 Mile Rds. The 15,700 square foot building is valued at $400,000 and should be occupied in June 1971. The building will contain classrooms, several meeting rooms, a large auditorium, kitchen facilities and offices. Housed in the center will be the Detroit Council of Poale Zion-United Labor Zionist Organization of America; Farband-Labor Zionist Order; Pioneer Women; Habonim-Zionist Youth; Detroit Israel Histadrut Campaign; and the Combined Hebrew-Yiddish Cultural School.

Township Pledges Its Support For Regional Hospital Here

Farmington Township would like to have a regional hospital within its limits and has gone on record as supporting such an addition to the community. The Farmington Township Board Monday night adopted a resolution pledging the township's support behind a proposal which could consummate with construction of a hospital near 13 Mile Rd. and I-275 (Haggerty Rd.).

A GROUP of physicians from the Detroit area is investigating constructing a $12 million regional hospital in the township.

The West Oakland County Hospital Planning Committee, official name for the doctors' group, had already dropped hints about possible location of the hospital in the township to see if public support could be obtained.

Dr. Michael Rup, committee chairman, presented in July the group wants to build a 200-bed hospital somewhere in Western Oakland County within the next year.

The hospital, which would include M.D.s as well as osteopaths on its staff, would be comparable in size to Botsford General Hospital on Grand River near 8 Mile.

THE FARMINGTON township site has attracted the committee because of its nearness not only to I-275 (a proposed north-south expressway) but also to I-96 on an east-west artery.

Hospital planners cite accessibility to expressways as a primary criteria in selecting a site for the proposed regional hospital.

The resolution of support Monday night was introduced by Trustee Earl Oppenheuser, who has been the township's liaison with the doctors.

future concerning site location. "We are heading in a progressive direction in our efforts to obtain a hospital for the Farmington Township area," he added.

The board resolution not only pledged the township's support for building a hospital at 13 Mile and I-275 but also urged the Greater Detroit Hospital Planning Council to approve the project and encouraged the federal government to provide financial aid.

IN OTHER action, the board set Sept. 14 as the date for a public hearing to discuss the cost of providing sanitary sewers for the Westhill Woods subdivision.

The board tabled a request to add 13 lots to the 13 Mile Rd. sanitary sewer arm in Sec. 8.

Trustee Margaret Schaefer asked that it be tabled to give the planning committee a chance to study the request.

Michigan Police Grants Aid Township, City

Two law enforcement grants from the State of Michigan are going to provide many benefits to the City of Farmington and Farmington Township Police Dept. The two grants were among 26 crime control grants totaling $1.5 million, the largest dollar amount awarded for law enforcement at one time by the state.

OAKLAND COUNTY was the primary beneficiary, with a grant of $67,900 to establish a Criminal Justice Information Center which will serve all police departments in the county.

Gov. Milliken's office says the computerized management information system will use computer equipment now operated by the county.

The system is described as a management tool to determine effective and economical methods of operation within departments.

Information on arrests, wanted criminals and current crimes will also be available.

ROBERT DEADMAN, the city's public safety director, described the program as a system in which computers will be utilized by local police departments for administrative data.

The computer, Deadman explained, will evaluate crime as to hour of day, type of offense, seriousness and locality.

The computer will be able to study criminal behavior in a very small district within a municipality, such as a block or half-block area.

Police chiefs then can assign patrolmen to patrol districts according to the workload of each district instead of its geographical size.

THE COMPUTER will also study the patrolman's workload. How much time does he spend on patrol? On investigations? Or doing paperwork?

"We can make sure the work is evenly spread between officers in order to get the best utilization we can out of our available personnel," explained Deadman, who served on the Oakland County committee which applied for the grants.

The computer will also be used by each department to file its reports to the state and federal governments.

Crime data will also be fed back to each department for its local reports, which are presently prepared manually.

"This should save departments a lot of clerical time. At least we will have a lot of data available for special studies."

Deadman anticipates growth of the project may lead to communication terminals being installed in each local department, so departments can communicate directly to the computer and receive feedbacks such like the Law Enforcement Information Network now operates.

"It's a unique project," Deadman added. "I don't know of any other place in the country doing this with such a large system."

ANOTHER GRANT which will provide benefits to the city and township is an award of $14,645 to the City of Royal Oak for the Oakland County Support Unit which serves South Oakland County.

There are presently 18 communities in the county which have formed a mutual aid pact, including Farmington city and township.

Many years before the 1967 Detroit riot, in the early fifties, 14 communities in South Oakland County formed a mutual aid pact—one of the first formed in the nation.

With local funds, the unit purchased its own mobile communication bus, its own tactical support unit composed of officers from each community and purchased uniforms and equipment.

The state grant announced by Milliken will be used to purchase a bus, trailer and equipment for the unit which will be put to use in case of public disorder.

The equipment will not be used on a day-to-day basis by any department but will be stored for use by the Support Unit in case of disorder.

The trailer will be used to transport the tactical equipment, such as body armor, gas and riot batons.

Details are also being worked out on a separate grant which would provide a legal adviser for police departments in Farmington City, Farmington Township, Southfield and Oak Park.
