

Community access chief to take on new job

March 1, Kathy Friedriehs, Community Access Television coordinator for MetroVision, will be moving on to pursue the more creative side of her career. She has accepted a position at University of Michigan School of Engineering as producer/director.

All of us have been together so long, we will miss her and yet understand the wonderful job opportunity. All the residents who have worked with Kathy through the almost eight years will appreciate the way her smile would light up her entire face; how concerned and dedicated she has been toward managing a quality television facility; her professional demeanor and technical proficiency; and how well liked and respected she was by her peers.

Also the readiness for humor, as our SWOCC staff would particularly mention all the fun experiences on shots over the years like watching Kathy parallel park the big TV van.

Kathy, we congratulate you and wish you well. We look forward to the time when our paths will meet again.
