FARMINGTON FOCUS

Any day lilies? Attention, area gardeners: The Farmington Hills Beautification Commission is looking for a few good day lilies. Donations would be used to start a day-lily nursery that would supply plants for "re-naturalization" projects in the city, according to Jeff Stewart of the Beautification Commission. "We'd like to improve the major mile roads with islands of day lilies," he said. Anyone who would like to contribute plants should call Joe Derek, city naturalist, at 473-9583.

Memory Lane

From August and September, 1965 issues of the Farmington Enterprise: George Donoghue of Farmington and Albert Schaufelberger of Detroit were killed, and Donoghue's 18-year-old son, Ronald, was seriously injured when their car collided with a truck on M-116 in Oceola County. Young Donoghue was believed to have been driving when the crash occurred. Congresswoman Martha W. Griffiths, elected from the 17th District, was to speak at the Clarenceville Optimist Club Sept. 20, 1955 at Huck's Redford Inn.
