BY LEONARD POGOR Editor
Charged with three felony counts in the hit-and-run death of a Hines Drive jogger, Garden City's Paul Sadler offered a public apology at his Westland district court arraignment Friday morning.

Sadler, 42, also commented in court that he didn't realize that he had hit anyone while driving on the Hines Drive near Merriman Wednesdays afternoon.

But District Judge C. Charles Bokos warned Sadler to not make any statements since anything he says may be used against him in subsequent court proceedings.

Victim of the hit-and-run fatality was Carolyn Casz, 24, of Farmington Hills. She had been visiting her sister in Westland before she went jogging.

The sister, brother-in-law and other relatives were in the Westland court for Sadler's arraignment.

Standing mute at the arraignment, Sadler had Judge Bokos enter a not-guilty plea. A preliminary examination date is scheduled for 9 a.m. Thursday, Sept. 21.

Because of a recent assault case involving domestic violence and drugs and alcohol and the fact Sadler is charged with fleeing the accident scene, Bokos said he felt Sadler is a "danger to society" and a threat to flee and set a bond of $500,000 cash.

Failing to post the bond, Sadler is being held in the sheriff's department Hines Drive-Newburgh station.

Sadler, 42, was placed on probation in January by Garden City District Judge Richard L. Hammer Jr. on an assault case.

The defendant is charged with manslaughter with a motor vehicle, which carries a maximum 15-year prison term; operating a vehicle under the influence of liquor causing a death, which also carries a 15-year penalty; and leaving the scene of a personal injury accident, which has a maximum five-year term. In addition to the potential terms, there is a fine for each of the counts.

The sheriff's department said that three witnesses saw the accident, with one calling the police by cellular telephone. They gave the deputies a license number which police then traced to a Garden City address.

Another witness, who didn't have a cellular phone, followed the suspect from the scene of the accident to his Garden City home where he was apprehended, the department said.

The sheriff's department is awaiting a State Police crime lab analysis of Sadler's blood sample to determine if there is any alcoholic content.

Sheriff Robert Ficano said Thursday Sadler refused to take a Breathalyzer test. A search warrant was then obtained by officers to draw blood.

Bokos said that the lab results are expected to be ready for Thursday's preliminary exam.

A court-appointed attorney will be named for Sadler in time for the exam, Bokos said.
