BIRDS QUICKLY GATHER WHERE FOOD IS PLACED

Are you doing your share in helping to feed the birds that make your neighborhood their abiding place during the winter months?

Have you taken the trouble to clear away a space where bread crumbs and small grains may be scattered during these winter days when the earth is covered with a coating of ice and snow? If you have not you will be surprised to know how quickly they will discover your Samaritan act and become regular visitors. Nothing pays more in direct returns in happiness than feeding our little feathered friends.

If you love the call of the birds in the springtime, if you delight in being awakened in the morning by their love songs, help protect them now. How gray are the dawns where there are no birds to usher them into the world.
