CALLS TELEPHONE "THE HAYSTACK SEARCHER"

Says Locating Individuals Is Service to Nation

The "searcher in the haystacks" is the term given the telephone by A. L. Bowen in his column, "Bowen's Comment," in a recent issue of the Illinois State Journal. The telephone, says Mr. Bowen, is the greatest modern searcher in the haystacks of the millions of individuals who compose humanity—and the most successful.

By way of illustration, Mr. Bowen cites how he was called to Chicago suddenly and had not reported to his office. A man in Cairo wanted to speak to him. The Cairo man called the office in Springfield. That office made inquiry and the man from Cairo who might find him at a certain hotel in Chicago. The telephone sought him there, where he was registered, but not in.

Caught Up With Him at Lunch

Next, inquiry was made at the Chicago State Hospital, the Home for the Blind, the Eye and Ear Infirmary, and other places which might be visiting, but all to no avail. Finally at the Research and Educational Hospital it was learned that the superintendent, Dr. Worthington, expected to attend a dinner at noon at his club—and there, on the nineteenth floor, in a small dining room, the seeker for the needle in the haystack found the man from Springfield, and he then talked with Cairo.

Seldom Falls in Search

Commenting on this, Mr. Bowen wrote: "What a system, that a million times a day in these United States and the world hunts for needles and seldom fails to find them. Think of the scores of men and women who give assistance in these hunts and of the millions of dollars invested for the sole purpose of hunting needles in a haystack. Not one of these engaged in the search that day knew me, had never heard of me, cared anything about me, but it was part of their duty to find me, that somebody else, equally important to them down in Cairo, might give me a message. And it was all done for a few cents and in a few minutes."

"It weren't for these agencies which bring the needles out of the haystacks, this country today would be a wilderness. Transportation and transmission of intelligence have given us America. When these two slaves work for the rest of the world as they have been working for these United States, then the earth will enjoy peace and the real fruits of civilization."

Oakland County Fair Under Way At Milford

With August held this year, the Oakland County Fair held its 52nd year since the first fair was held at Milford. Of the original promoters, none are left but the fair has continued and by its yearly exhibitions has maintained and increased an entertainment to two and three generations of its patrons.

For the 1932 fair the management is featuring exhibits of the Oakland County Fair, the 4-H Clubs. Besides these and the staple exhibits in livestock and farm products there are three days of horse racing, three ball games and a fine line of platform attractions for the day and evening.

The spectacular theatrical stage production, "Silver Threads" with 55 performers, is being presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights along with circus acts.

Telephone service to Egypt was made available to Michigan people and other telephone users of the country Monday, August 8, according to announcement by R. E. Crowe, manager in this area for the Michigan Bell Telephone company.

TAMM FAMILY HOLDS ITS FIRST REUNION

The first reunion of the Tamm family was well attended. It was held at the home of John Tamm on the tenth road, Sunday, about 75 attending.

After dinner was served on the lawn, a short program followed by a number of the little folks. The music from Commerce, was so good that the band floor was cleared and all danced.

The reunion next year will be held at the home of Henry Evert of 8-Mile Road, on the first Sunday in August.

That the Michigan State Fair and Exposition, Sept. 4 to 10, shall truly be a "Peoples Fair", is in keeping with the present administration charge. Every effort is being expended to make it the most representative in the state's history.
