City Streets To Be Decorated

Gay strings of Christmas lights and garlands of evergreen will adorn the downtown section of Farmington to add the spirit of Christmas to Grand River, Avenue. The merchants of Farmington and the City have agreed to cooperate to decorate the city in true Christmas style. Colored lights will be strung, criss-cross fashion across the streets of Grand River and Farmington Road.

Evergreen boughs will decorate the Detroit Edison ornamental lamp poles from the post office east through the business section.

One half the cost of the decorations will be borne by the city and the other half will be raised by contributions from the merchants.

Lists of Needy Should Be Turned in At Once

All Farmington churches and other organizations which have lists of needy families are urged to turn these lists in as soon as possible to Floyd Nichols, treasurer of the Farmington Goodfellows. To avoid duplication and to be sure no one is missed, the distribution of food, clothing and other necessities should be handled by one central organization.

Old-Fashioned Christmas Shopping Ideas Are Out

The old days of Christmas shopping are past. Today the shopper takes advantage of early gift day prices, saves wear and tear on his constitution and temper, and gets better bargains. It pays to start on the buying to do list before the deadline so that there is time to consider what gift will please a certain person most.

If you're in doubt as to what would please Mother, Dad, Aunt, Uncle or Cousin Jim, the place for you is Hatton's Farmington Hardware. If you haven't made up your mind, just browse about—you sure will find just the thing.

The nice thing about electrical gifts is that they make attractive Christmas presents—yet they fill a year's round need. Your Detroit Edison dealer has electric ranges and water heaters on display. Stop in and look them over.

Here's how to arrange a super-luxury Christmas dinner in one easy lesson. Go to Lakeland, near the Wallad Lake, and make your selection from their wide variety of home-spreads and many other meats.

Township Sells Water System Bonds

Farmington Township has completed negotiations for the sale of its Waterworks Revenue bonds and now has the money on deposit with which to construct the system.

The Township Board has also awarded the contract for the construction of the system to the Christensen Company of Royal Oak, Michigan, in accordance with their proposal of October 3. The total cost of the system will be approximately $102,000.00.

The new system will serve all of the "hot spot" areas in the square mile bounded by 5th Mile Road, Inkster Road, 9 Mile Road and Middle Road. It is estimated that approximately 300 customers will be furnished water, from the system upon its completion.

The system will be secured from the City of Detroit through a master meter to be located in 5th Mile Road.

All of the mains will be cast iron and all materials used will conform to the standard specifications of the Detroit Department of Water Supply.

To Install Connections

The service connections, which are the small pipes connecting the customer meter with the mains laid in the street, will be installed complete to the customer's buildings as a part of the construction.

SUPREME COURT DECISION SETS PRECEDENT

What appears to be a precedent among court decisions in the State of Michigan was set this week by the State Supreme Court, hearing an appeal brought before it by Schulte & Paré, Farmington law firm.

The decision was that a township justice of the peace has power to try cases involving violations of ordinances enacted by the township. Justice John B. Ambrose of Redford Township had heard a case against a resident of Redford Township charged with violating a zoning ordinance set up by the Township.

When the right of the justice to try the case was challenged, on appeal to the Circuit Court, Judge Henry G. Nicol of the Wayne Circuit Court quashed the charge on the grounds that the justice had no jurisdiction to try ordinance cases. Schulte and Paré, representing the township of Redford, obtained permission to bring the case before the Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court reversed Judge Nicol's decision and stated that the ordinance enacted was within the power conferred on the township by a statute, and that the township could not be held liable for the peace "to hear and determine charges for all offenses arising within his county" authorized him to punish offenders under the ordinance.

The State law carries no specific provision that a township justice may hear cases of violations of township ordinances and so far as is known this is the first time they have been empowered to do so.
