SUNSHINE LADY DESCRIBES SOME "GOOD NEIGHBORS"

This has been a most interesting week for me, and I'm sure lots of fun to a great many shut-ins who have been shown all week with some real old time view cards from about the world. Little shut-ins were getting a real kick out of the funny looking clothes and cars that were being shown back in Grandmother's time. Some of the early views were even shown on TV.

All this fun was made possible through the kindness of Mrs. Julia Herbst, 33514 Grand River Avenue, who not only supplied the cards, but 200 stamps for mailing them. We think Mrs. Herbst is rather wonderful.

On Tuesday I did some visiting in Farmington and was told about some very special neighbors living on Collingham Avenue. It seems when a new family moves into the neighborhood, they don't just drop a line to little Shirley Ghellor, 424 Ardmore, Fernside 20, Michigan. This is a very special case.

Mrs. Charles Neefe, 18 S. Perry Street, Pontiac, is in need of your cheer, as is Miss Ethel McCracken, Box 254, Keego Harbor.

Doris Burgess, c/o Herman Keller Hospital, Hamilton Avenue, Detroit 2, would also enjoy hearing from you.

Mrs. Earl Ross, 5049 Whitfield Detroit 4, is also going through some long shut-in days. If you have a special neighbor such as Mrs. Herbst or the folks on Collingham, won't you tell me about them, so we can make them known to the other folks about town?

tion against him in the New Hampshire primary is such that he may lose.

SIMILAR BATTLE IN UTAH - Tobey's opposition is similar to that which has lined up against other courageous senators this year. In Utah, for instance, the National Association of Manufacturers has helped nominate its ex-president in opposition to Sen. Elbert Thomas, and may defeat him. Thomas, as chairman of the senate labor committee, drafted the repeal of the Taft-Hartley act and went all-out for labor. Now big business is retaliating against an enemy while labor is slow in going to fight for a friend.

Similar forces were lined up against senators Claude Pepper in Florida and Frank Graham in North Carolina—two men who had the courage to fight for the Negro and for labor. And whether you agree with either of these senators, even their enemies have to admit that it takes courage to champion the Negro in Florida and North Carolina. Both Senators were defeated in this year's primaries.

New Hampshire's Tobey now appears to be next on the list. And again, whether you agree with Tobey or not, his enemies also have to admit that he has courage. He was, for instance, the one Republican who led the fight against confirmation of Truman's close pal, big oilman Ed Pauley, to be undersecretary of the navy at a time when Truman was at the peak of his popularity. Most Republicans did not relish bucking him.

Tobey also stood up against one of the most powerful industrial concerns in his home state, Texton, which owns some 200 textile mills in New England. Staging one of its biggest operations in Tobey's biggest voting area, Manchester, Texton had powerful friends, and the probe was not popular.

As a result of his courageous fight, however, it was discovered that the family of Texton's president, Royal Little, had made heavy personal profits that should have gone to the stockholders.

To the Editor: It's in the wind—we must have a fire hall. For whose benefit? The City of Farmington or Farmington Township?

I think it would be a better idea to put the cart behind the horse. Let's have better roads first, then we have to leave the truck in the hall while our home burns? Or will it be seasonal?

Says Road Funds Lag Behind Needs

Net revenues from gasoline taxes for Michigan roads and streets are not keeping pace with the motorists' need for driving space, says Jay F. Gibbs, president of the Michigan Good Roads Federation.

"Bureau of Public Roads figures just released show an increase of 5.4 per cent in taxable gasoline sold in Michigan in 1949 over 1948, yet highway department figures reveal an increase of nearly 10 per cent in vehicle miles driven," said Gibbs.

This gap between revenues and road needs started in the early thirties, has been widening ever since. It is further aggravated by the fact that Michigan's road tax rates, weight and gasoline combined, are still at depression levels and are the lowest of any state in the country. At the same time, Gibbs, costs of road and street maintenance and construction have more than doubled.

"Unless we take steps soon to remedy this inequality between what we put into our roadways and what we are trying to take out of them, we'll find, as many already have, that driving a car is not worth the trouble of owning it. That over-crowded highways are fraught with danger; and that motoring for pleasure will be reduced to a minimum," warned Gibbs.

The Michigan Good Roads Federation for nearly three years has been urging legislative enactment of its overall road and street rehabilitation program. Its recommendations are based on the engineering analysis "Highway Needs in Michigan."

This report reveals a necessity for additional road revenues, their equitable distribution, administrative reforms and a reclassification of roads and streets.
