Changing the old adage to "Burn the Mid-Night Syrup," must admit here is one gal who is glad the canning season is about over. While many neighbors have been complaining about the midnight music of a nearby eatery, there have been several Moms-in-aprons about the neighborhood, glad to have the tunes to keep us awake at night. Since it's a cometh old dynamo pho's mostly responsible for the night-canning at our house — and we still think it's a cute age — to prove it, here's a story: another little 11-monther. She's the granddaughter of our neighbors, the McCaigues, who had been away on a vacation to Canada this fall. First stop when they returned was at Little Doll's house and when their visit ended she cried to go home with them. So, with a sly wink, Grandpa and Grandpa, a few nearby blocks.

"Bye!" she shouted at Mommy and Daddy and continued squealing in ecstasy "Bye!" at the top of her voice for several blocks. Suddenly, the gleeal exuberance departed and a tiny voice asked "Mama?" And then it was "Mama!" full-steam until she was back home, again. "What fun it is now for the George Seegers of 34012 John Street, Wayne. You may remember the Seegers; hardly seems possible it was three years ago, a month after they moved from 29342 Scouten Street. Sharon is seven now and a second grader, and Linda a lively age four. Now there's a little boy, Bruce Robert, and he arrived September 10.

A big guy is Brian Hallock, who has been brightening the big house at 29992 List Street with his smiles. Almost 20 pounds already, he is only six months old. He's tall, too, and carries his size handsomely. We imagine that his former-career-gal Mom, Mrs. John Keith, is pretty sweet on her new job.

It's been a thrill watching the new white brick home of the Edward Shafers on List Street go up 50 feet. A ranch type, it's especially suited to its pretty site of tall trees. Built into a hill, their basement features an outside door at the back to their garden, which adjoins his parents', the Harry Shafers. Their neighbor, Russell Ellis, has built the new residence.

Standing out in stately elegance in a neighborhood of otherwise new homes is the house recently purchased by the Thomas Munns of 29293 Scouten Street. It's at 19154 the Munns don't intend moving there themselves, they are having great fun landscaping it and moving in antique furnishings which they relish so beautifully, as a hobby. They're also filling it with career ladies, school teachers and nurses, and "manager of the house" at the present time is the Munn's niece, Miss Mary Ellen Raff.

Antiques were the star attraction at the Town Club's "Old Fashioned Tea" last Saturday, and couldn't help wishing we were a descendant of one of the old families ourselves. Then found a picture there of the old Owen Hotel, and since that's our maiden name got to thinking and remembered that back in the family line had a hotel in the Detroit area. Checked with the Owen Chronicle and sure enough, we're related to Old Farmington after all, and also to our neighbor, Mrs. Willis Dix of 21130 Middlebelt Road. The former Sally Gildemester, her second son, born last March, was named Gary Owen. According to an old, old edition of the Enterprise a Gildemester married an Owen way back how many years?

YWCA Fall Registration Shows Practical Turn

Detroit girls are of a practical turn of mind this year, according to registrations for YWCA fall classes. Cooking and dressmaking led in registration at Central Branch YW. Harriet Bove, Central Branch director of health and education, said. Swimming was next in popularity. "With classes to enhance the figure, improve the mind, and develop stimulating hobbies, the YWCA's program at its four branches offers a wide field of interest," Miss Bove said.

Classes are open to all women and girls and also to men and boys, she stated. Descriptive booklets may be obtained by request from Central Branch YW, 2230 Witherell Street at Montclair.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my dear husband, John E. O'Brien, September 21, 1950. Deep in my heart there is a place the worth more than silver or gold. It's a picture of you, dear, that will never grow old. Some may think I have forgotten When sometimes they see me smile. They little know the heartaches That are hidden all the while. His life is a beautiful memory, His absence a slight grief. He sleeps in God's beautiful garden in sunshine of perfect peace. Wife Joy R. O'Brien.

It's A Boy!

It's a boy at the home of Staff Sergeant and Mrs. Norman Goers. He arrived September 10 at the Florence Crittenton Hospital and is named Edward James. The proud grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Goers and Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Edward James Sunday, September 16, at the Catholic Church in Mill-Road. The new father is home and received his discharge from the Marine Corps at Cherry Pointe, North Carolina, last week.
