Produce
Youth Film

A new slide presentation made for area schools and youth groups has been announced by Major Gen. John L. Boros, commanding general of the 70th Division (Training), 3451 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia.

"To a young person unsure of his future a job that teaches a marketable skill in a brief period and also offers a good salary with benefits is ideal," said General Boros. "This presentation lists some of these opportunities and explains the 70th Division's training program."

The Livonia headquarters is one of five centers in Michigan and seven in Indiana that teach young men to conduct basic combat training in the event of a national emergency. Monthly weekend drills prepare the Reservists for two weeks of annual training at a U.S. Army Basic Training Center where 70th Division personnel actually assume the responsibility of training new recruits. "But not everyone here is a drill sergeant," explained General Boros. "Lawyers, engineers, journalists, teachers, and many other skilled tradesmen serve in the Army by utilizing their civilian talents."

Community and charity projects undertaken by the 70th Division are also discussed in the program. Continued General Boros, "We've sent men to help build a park in Farmington Township, conduct athletic activities at a youth home in Pontiac, and do maintenance work at a Scout camp in Metamora. Projects like these are just part of the new Army."

The 30-minute presentation is produced by 2nd Lt. Don Vaquera, Detroit, a graduate of Eastern Michigan University, and is available to any interested school or youth group.

An educational showplace, the Southwest Oakland Vocational Education Center, will salute National Vocational Education Week, with an open house on Sunday, Feb. 18, from 1-4 p.m. at the school, 1000 Beck Road, Walled Lake.

The public may inspect the $2 million school which opened in September 1971 to junior and senior students from public, private and parochial schools in seven school districts.

Administered by the Walled Lake Consolidated School District, the center is one of the four in Oakland County designed to provide students with a salable skill whether they go immediately into full time jobs or continue their college education and work part-time. The Center is funded with state, county and federal funds.

Among participating schools are: Clarenceville, Farmington, Harrison, North Farmington, and Our Lady of Mercy High School in Farmington.

Students attend regular high school classes for half a day and spend the other half day at the Vocational Center.

Refreshments made by the food service classes will be served. Demonstrations of work in the various fields will be held in each classroom.
