

Residents pay double

 may have to pay another sewage bill if the line is installed. They already pay double water and sewage rates.
 Ed and Sandra Baker, who live on Nine Mile near Power Road, said they believe the new sewer will give them a triple sewage bill.
 The Bakers, who moved into the area two years ago, said they were not aware of the double sewage charge before they moved into their house. They were told only of the double water rate.
 They are upset about the possibility of paying another sewage bill because they don't need the city's sewer. They own a septic tank.

 convention, and John Jacques organized the Carter campaign.
 Students from the marketing class printed the sign used in the convention. Mrs. Mary Allgood, Edward Davis, Tom Wallis and William Brinker, all government teachers at the school, acted as advisors to the students.
 Brinker believes the convention was a significant event for the school. He said, "My students are better informed today about the Democratic Party than 90 per cent of Farmington."
