

Stick or tub?

Shoppers can usually save six or seven cents per pound if they buy stick margarine rather than the soft stuff in the tub, reports Kathleen Buffon, of the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service.

'Private Lives' coming

One of Noel Coward's most successful comedies is now in rehearsal with, from left, Jack Grulke, Phil Embury, Marcia Benson and Sandra Sutherland taking the lead roles. "Private Lives" will open Friday, Feb. 20 in the Farmington Players Barn on 12 Mile, between Farmington and Orchard Lake roads, under the direction of Kathryn Sutton. Play dates continue for three consecutive weekends. Tickets are available through the players new box office telephone, 851-5508.

Reception planned for area rabbi

Rabbi Samuel Stauber, spiritual leader of Congregation B'nai Torah of Toronto (Ont.), will address a special reception in honor of Rabbi Shneur Kotler on Wednesday, Feb. 4 at the home of Mrs. Sol Nussbaum, 5840 Woodhills, Southfield.

Rabbi Stauber has been intensely involved in Jewish community problems on a national level. He has shown the way to successfully bridge the gap between Jewish youth and the values of Jewish tradition.

A graduate of New Israel Rabbinical College, he has studied extensively in Israel. He was a leader in congregational and educational work in Baltimore. He is well known as a dynamic orator.

The Beth Midrash Gersha in Lakewood, N.J., under Rabbi Kotler, has exerted a tremendous influence on Jewish scholarship all over the country and worldwide. Graduate students are trained to pioneer the establishment of centers of Talmudic learning and research. In recent years, despite the hardships more than 15 centers of Jewish scholarship have been established.

Some 700 students, scholars study at the Rabbi Aaron Kotler Institute for Advanced Learning, and more than 30 students are from Detroit area families.

The branch of special interest in Detroit is in Oak Park and recently conducted a deliberation exercises of a new center. Rabbi Kotler, head of the largest Talmudic Center in the world will share in sights into the educational problems facing

Mrs. Peets in concert
