

Story league to host 9 area librarians

The Detroit Story League will host nine librarians at its next meeting set for Saturday, April 17, at 10 a.m. in Farmington Community Library, 2077 Twelve Mile, Farmington Hills.

Honored guests from the host library will be: J. L. Lock, Denise M. L. Jones, Merrill and Barbara Schurer; from the Farmington Library, Roslyn Narbutas; and from the Rochester Public Library, Susan Barr and Irene Rasmussen. Sandy comes from the Bloomfield Hills Library, and Kaye Grabbe comes from Plymouth.

The meeting will begin with a bring-your-own-sandwich luncheon, and dessert will be served by hostess for the day, Paula Method of Royal Oak.

The program for the day is a how-to-do-it storytellers' workshop with the theme, "Heritage of Life." "Heritage of Our Ancestors" will be told by Louise Chang-Jin of the newest members of the league, who lives in Livonia.

Others taking part in leading the workshop are Minnie Radtke, and the league president, Ruth Kroegel.

THE LEAGUE'S purpose is to keep the art of storytelling alive through study and workshops. League members come from all parts of the Detroit metropolitan area and answer requests to tell stories for groups throughout lower Michigan.

Robert Bulough, a Livonia resident and Mrs. Method will work together for an evening of story entertaining on Thursday, April 22, in Central Woodward Christian Church in Detroit.
