fected by a millage raise." Forbes said.

House Bill 6122 should encourage voters to approve any upcoming millage requests. Forbes maintained, since amillage increase for districts affected by provisions of the act would not result in a loss of state funds.

FORBES SAID he voted for the bill, now in the senate, and it is supported by the Michigan Education Association, the Mich-igan Association of School Boards and the Michigan Association of School Adminis-trators

The City of Southfield's 1976-77 lax base in estimated at $800 million compared to $820 million in 1975-16. The redscion said administrator. Peter Orstanen is a result of $44 million in new personal property investory removed from the tax rolls because of the new single business tax. Critiano claims the city will lose an estimated $150,000 a year in new investory valuation and taxpayers will be penalized.

According to one Southfield official, legislators who claim the single business tax will be modified or repealed are more concerned about its affect on small business than on local government.
