Michigan's wall-a-minute-if-you-don't-like-it weather has outdoor itself this spring.

Even having experienced quite a few of these unpredictable seasons, I still can't remember a year when the chocolate bunions melted on Easter and then a junior blizzard followed a week later.

Or when it was too hot to wear a pastel spring suit on Easter Sunday and too cold for the same suit the next week.

BUT ALTHOUGH it was a short summer, there's one thing that has made the weather of the last 10 days somewhat enjoyable.

Most years, when Michigan finally lets us have spring, it's suddenly warm enough for summer, and it stays that way, so the season of the tulips and daffodils and cherry blossoms is all too short.

This year, although I'm sure the spring blossoms and greenery are not very appreciative of the chilly days, they are staying at their best for a longer time instead of fading quickly in the too-soon heat.

ELECTROLYSES WORKS!

We found that out 16 years ago. And we have been helping people rid themselves of unwanted hair ever since. If you have embarrassing hair on the face, upper lip, arms, legs or thighs, it can be removed permanently. Not by gasping, not by pruned muscles, but by medically approved electrolysis.
