Prof gets surprise

Mrs. Dimity is now embarked on a whole batch of new news. She is completing her first Ph.D. credit course at University of Michigan and has signed up for more. Mrs. Morden describes her friend as a woman with a fertile mind, saying she is never sure what to expect when she walks in the office.
Mrs. Dimity talks of cooperative programming with the Farmington libraries, a wonderful day with students at the books and authors conference held this month at Cobb Hall.
We must go to that every year from now on. It was marvelous.
She has some new ideas for improving handbooks, better ways of developing displays, and has her students doing annotated bibliographies for the Farmington children's librarians.
But what pleases her the most at this moment are all those decorated quilt squares, each signed by a student.
She says she thinks the LIT's program has appeal because "we deal in real things and real projects."
The quilt is one of the proudest and most treasured of these real things.

Business youths to compete

Seven Farmington Hills youths will have a chance to demonstrate their business prowess when they compete in the Junior Achievement Southeastern Michigan Officer of the Year contest on Friday, April 30.
Those participating are: Rosemary Abowd, 16, an 11th grader at Our Lady of Mercy High School; Kathy Cawkowski, 17, a 12th grader at Our Lady of Mercy; Donna Gaudin, 16, an 11th grader at Our Lady of Mercy; Michelle Almond, 15, a 10th grader at Our Lady of Mercy; Gary Koshak, 15, a 10th grader at North Farmington High School; Don Gough, 15, a 10th grader at Our Lady of Mercy; and Frances Royle, 16, an 11th grader at Our Lady of Mercy.
Those competing represent nine offices in the JA program: president, vice president of sales, purchasing manager, vice president of manufacturing, safety director, corporate secretary, personnel director, treasurer and bank executive.
One winner in each office category will be chosen as officer of the year and then go on to further competition at the national JA conference.
