Residents will have a chance to acquaint themselves the easy way with the Farmington Police Department during Police Week, May 15-21.

The first day of the week is given over to remembering those officers who gave their lives in the service of their community.

As Police Week continues, the Farmington department will have an open house each day from 2-9 p.m. Residents are welcome to come to the station at 23600 Liberty and accompany an officer on patrol after signing a release form.

Getting to know the Farmington Police can include joining a police reserve unit, a neighborhood watch program and, for CB'ers, the Community Observation Patrol Service.

Another way of becoming closer to the police is through citizen cooperation in response to Farmington Police Chief Dan Byrnes.

"Citizen cooperation is very simply a realization that the police cannot do the job alone."

"It is a willingness on the part of each and every citizen to become involved by reporting crime and then following through, by participating in the criminal justice process, most importantly as witnesses in court, assisting in criminal prosecutions," he said.

Vandals burn pastor's home

By LOUISE OKRUTSKY

Farmington Hills fire investigators believe that a group of juveniles are responsible for ransacking and setting a fire May 11 in the home of senior citizens zoning advocate Rev. Meredith Moshauer.

Investigators and the family of the Nardin Park Methodist Church's pastor hesitate to connect the incident with the growing controversy over the feasibility of building senior citizens apartments in Farmington Hills.

"There is no tie in (with the zoning issue) at this time," said Farmington Hills Police Capt. Russel Conway. "We think, from the way things look, that it was done by kids. It's still under investigation."

"It's the first thing that comes to everyone's mind," said Mrs. Donna Moshauer. "But I don't know that it would be fair to say that it had any connection with the senior citizens."

Vandalism evidently was the primary motive for the early evening spree, according to police. A child's piggy bank and cedar jewel box were smashed by the intruders. A small amount of money from the bank is the only item that has so far been reported missing from the home.

3 from Farmington are Albion grads

Three seniors from the Farmington area received a bachelor's degree from Albion college, recently.

Jo Anne Polgar, of Farmington, received a BA in visual arts; Kevin Howard Schaefer, of Farmington, received a BA in socio music management and Karey Lynn Smith, of Farmington Hills, received a BA in chemistry.

CLOTHES AND PAPERS WERE strewn about three bedrooms and the living room. Papers were removed from a small metal box and a brief case and scattered around the living room.

Vandals walked into the home through the garage door, according to police. Investigators are looking into the possibility that the intruders had a key to the home. Parish trustees and church personnel are reported to have keys to the Moshauer residence. So far, no one has reported missing a key, according to police.

The fire was discovered by the family at 9 p.m., when they returned for the night. As they entered the front door, they were confronted by smoke coming from the upstairs master bedroom. The fire was started in a drawer which was placed on the mattress. Damages to the property and its contents are estimated at $13,000 by fire officials.

Citizens meet cops at open house

EVERY DAY, police officers are seldom carbon copies of television detectives, according to Byrnes.

"Despite the manner in which law enforcement is portrayed on television, and the ease in which our favorite weekly TV heroes solve crime and put criminals behind bars, in real life there are very few crimes which are so easily solved."

"It's a tough job which requires endless hours of hard leg work, asking thousands of questions, dealing with uncooperative and often hostile witnesses.

"Often times there are no investigative leads you can draw on your years of street experience, you have to use some theories and create your own leads. If you are lucky, your hunches and experience pay off, but far too often your efforts only lead you up a blind dead-end alley with no solution in sight."
