'Fiddler' preview set for Oakway

A preview of "Fiddler on the Roof," which the Oakway Symphony Orchestra will present in fall, will be the highlight of the symphony society's annual meeting.

Open to the public, the annual meeting will begin at 8 p.m. Monday, June 6 in Antioch Lutheran Church, Thirteen Mile at Farmington roads, Farmington Hills.

Bill Premin, who will play Tevye, and Kay Grismer, as Golda, along with the Oakway chamber orchestra directed by Francesco DiBlasi, will perform musical selections from the show.

The music will follow a short business meeting at which officers and board members will be elected.

ANDREW HENDERSON, assistant Oakway conductor, will give a character study of the two principals and other members of the cast.

Henderson said Premin is particularly good as Tevye because he's "be- lievable as a human being, not as a caricature."

The whole idea is to tell the human element—what people went through, not to make caricatures," said Henderson, who will be a co-director of the production.

"Fiddler" tells the stories of rural Jews in Czarist Russia and of their decision to migrate to the United States.

PREMIN, ANOTHER co-director, has directed many productions for Dearborn Civic Theater. He played Tevye in "Fiddler" productions for both Dearborn and the Jewish Community Center.

He has directed and acted in many productions with the Windsor Light Opera Players and acted the lead in the University of Windsor's "Death of a Salesman."

A former radio station manager, Premin is purchasing agent for the Troy School District.

Besides being an accomplished actor, Premin is a good singer, even though the role of Tevye doesn't require a first-rate voice, Henderson said.

KAY GRISMER is known to local audiences for her work with the Livonia-Redford Theater Guild in "Luv" and "Seesaw."

Now completing work on a PhD at Wayne State University, Miss Grismer has directed "Scenes of Love and Hatred" and appeared in "Pal Joey," "Company" and "Hedda Gabler," all at WSU's Bonstelle Theater.

At Greenfield Village she has been in the Ben Franklin Show, "A Taste of Honey," "Showboat" and "Winnie the Pooh." She was a national finalist in the University Resident Theater Association Acting Auditions.

Oakway's offering of "Fiddler" will be produced by Performing Artists Unlimited with Premin, Henderson and Gael Barr as directors. It is scheduled for performance Sept. 24 in Mercy High School, Farmington Hills.
