Dog show set

The German Shepherd Dog Club of Kensington will have its Midsummer Madness Specialty Fun Match Aug. 14 at the Fowlerville Fairgrounds, on Grand River in Fowlerville. Confirmation judge will be Dave Rinke of Hartford, Wis. and obedience judge will be Norm Korn of Detroit. Entries will be taken from 10 a.m. until the classes begin. Judging begins at noon.

Root learns to sell rustproof process

Ted Root has successfully completed Ziebart Rustproofing Company's sales and management training program, according to Ken Carlson and Don Wilson, owners of a Ziebart Auto Truck Rustproofing facility in Farmington Hills.

The program is designed to cover the sales aspects of Ziebart Rustproofing.

GM employee honored

John Ratcliffe, 46730 Twelve Mile in Novi, was cited for outstanding achievements in chemistry at the recent education night sponsored by the Detroit Section of the American Chemical Society.

Ratcliffe graduated from Oakland University in June, and is now employed by General Motors.

The recognition program is an annual event which honors outstanding high school and college chemistry students, and seeks to promote an appreciation for chemistry.

Hills degrees

Four Farmington Hills men were among the 4,000 students who received degrees from Wayne State University at the spring commencement exercises.

All four graduated from the law school.

Wendell R. Tucke received a master of laws degree, specializing in labor law, and Joseph P. Galasso Jr. received another master of laws degree, specializing in taxation.

Alan M. Valade and Clarence M. Gabel were among the 200 who received degrees from the law school.

Prisk gets new title

William Prisk, business manager of the Farmington School District, has been designated the Assistant Superintendent of Finance and Services by the Farmington School Board.

"The change in title reflects the importance and status of Mr. Prisk's responsibilities and duties," said Supt. Lewis Schulman. There is no change in salary at the present time. Schulman added.

Practice deluge

Farmington Hills Fire Capt. Ben Brogren, (left) Lt. Hil Howard and District Chief Paul Button participate in a recent fire fighting exercise with Firefighter Jim Richards and Dave Curt. The group is using hoses which are three inches in diameter. Called deluge guns, the hoses can handle 750 gallons of water a minute. (Photos by Jim Achtenberg)
