

'Dollars For David' campaign gets help from youngsters

A pre-Hanuka party for youngsters, given by Pioneer Women's Greater Detroit Council of Labor Zionist Institute in Farmington Hills, had a two-fold purpose.

The party kicked off the annual Pioneer Women Dollars for David campaign, and was given to instill the youth with the concept of sharing with those less fortunate.

David is the symbolic name, taken from the Star of David, of any child in Israel who may be in need of help. He or she may be the child of a fallen soldier, a working mother, a disadvantaged family, an orphan, or may come from a broken home.

Pioneer Women calls upon the community at Hanukkah, when many are buying gifts for their children, grandchildren or friends' children, to remember the children of Israel.

The collected funds are earmarked to build, maintain and equip a child care center. The funds also provide safe environmental vacations for children of border kibbutzim who sleep regularly in underground shelters.

THE CHILDREN who attended the party this week decorated a Hanuka box to receive "Hanuka gelt (money)" to be sent to Israel.

The hostesses of the party say that the practice of giving is not regarded as an act of charity, which could demean the less fortunate, but as a responsibility on the part of the more fortunate.

Karen Berris of Oak Park is chairwoman for Dollars for David. She is assisted in this effort by Betty Rath of Farmington Hills; Clara Kleiman and Jackie Drapkin, both of Southfield; Barbara Disher of Oak Park; and Risa Berris of Farmington.

Persons wishing to make a donation to Dollars for David are asked to make checks payable to Dollars for David-Pioneer Women, and send them to Pioneer Women, 2855 Middle Belt, Farmington Hills 48018.

Inquiries will be taken by the group at 851-0750.

Volunteers plan sale

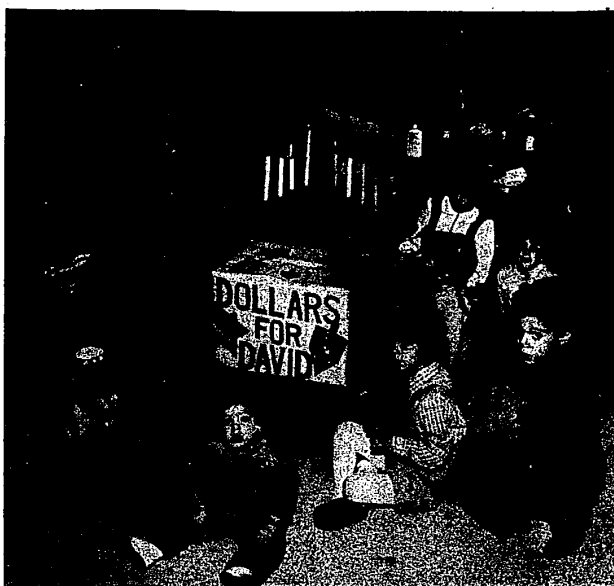

An extensive selection of holiday gifts will be offered at the annual Christmas sale on Friday, Dec. 2 sponsored by Our Lady of Providence League, the volunteer arm of Providence Hospital in Southfield.

Proceeds from the event will go to the Providence Hospital Building fund. Featured at the Christmascart will be jewelry, watches, scarves, lingerie, boutique items, infant wear, toys, stationery, clothing, stocking stuffers and holiday decorations.

Members of the league, which operates the hospital gift shop, will present a continuous minifashion show throughout the event. Refreshments will be available.

The sale runs from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the hospital's Fisher Center Lounge. Parking will be available in front of the Fisher Center.

Some of the children who learned about "Dollars for David" at the pre-Hanuka party are (clockwise) Michael Bernard, Jonathan Blavin, Joshua Berris, Sharon Weizman, Gordon Berris and Elanit Weizman.
