Bow-Wow for Bo

Even the canine world has some Schenbechler fans who caught the Rose Bowl fever last weekend. Parked out in front of the Passena arena waiting for the Wolverine is three-year-old Stinger, a golden retriever from Farmington, whose loyalty for the classic game is quite evident. However, Stinger agreed after the Wolverine upset that Michigan had certainly gone to the dogs. (Photo by Tom Donoghue)

Reigner takes new office

Kenneth H. Reigner of Farmington has been appointed to the post of Public Information Officer of the National Credit Union Administration. His appointment went into effect Jan. 3. Reigner, 28, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hal M. Reigner, and leaves the office of U.S. Sen. Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.), where he served as press secretary since July 1974. While on leave from Magnuson's office, he traveled throughout the country with then-presidential candidate Jimmy Carter, serving as the Democratic nominee's radio press assistant. In January 1977, he was elected secretary of the Senate Press Secretaries Association, and he is a member of the Americans for Democratic Action and the American Civil Liberties Union.

The National Credit Union Administration is an independent agency of the government which insures the accounts and oversees the operations of more than 12,000 federal credit unions.
