

'The Robber Bridegroom' a hoedown musical

George Deloy stars as "Jamie Lockhart" in National Tour of Broadway's "The Robber Bridegroom."

The story is told with a country flavor and a city sophistication. The music is foot-stompin' and the home-spun characters are (almost) right out of history.

The show is "The Robber Bridegroom," Broadway's country musical hit which received rave reviews in New York and won a Tony Award for its star, Barry Bostwick.

"The Robber Bridegroom" arrives at Detroit's Music Hall Center with a whoop and a holler for three performances Feb. 2-4, at 8:30 p.m. and a matinee Feb. 4 at 2.

"The Robber Bridegroom" is a Robin Hood-type story of a rascal highwayman, his country cohorts and a fair damsel, set against the backwoods frontier of Mississippi circa 1800. Mistaken identities, good-natured humor and innocent romance make this geared for the entire family.

THE SHOW is based upon the novella by southern writer Eudora Welty, with book and lyrics by Alfred Uhry. The show's 13 production numbers feature the original music of Robert Waldman and choreography of Dennis Grimm. An on-stage blue grass band sets everyone's feet tapping.

The New York Daily News said of the show, "A lively and sassy country musical," and The New York Post called it "charming and fresh entertainment."

"The Robber Bridegroom" stars George Deloy as the roguish bandit,

Jamie Lockhart, and Barbara Marineau (a native Michigander) as the innocent object of his affections. Deloy was Barry Bostwick's understudy in the Broadway production and Miss Marineau made her Broadway debut last season in a starring role in "Shenandoah."

Tickets can be purchased by calling the Music Hall box office 10 a.m.-6 p.m., Monday through Friday, and noon-6 p.m. Saturday. The box office window is open noon-6 p.m. Monday-Saturday. Master Charge, BankAmericard and J.I. Hudson charge cards are accepted.

The Music Hall is located at 350 Madison Avenue.

Trip Plymale recreated his Broadway role as "Goat."

Oceania Inn to celebrate

To welcome the Lunar New Year, the year of Horse, which will begin Feb. 7, Oceania Inn is sponsoring a special celebration for children and adults at the Meadowbrook Village Mall in Avon Township Feb. 6, starting at 4 p.m.

The evening will feature a rarely seen traditional Lion Dance plus a two foot tall fire-cracker celebration. Inside the mall, Chinese instrumental music and films and slides about the Chinese New Year will be shown.

Oceania Inn also will provide hors d'oeuvres, cookies and a lot more for the public, without charge.
