Sunday afternoon the good!

ruary 11th, at three o'clock.

Sunday afternoon the goodly number fortunate enough; to be present at the 3 o'clock service were indeed gratified with the message sent forth by Rev. W. A. Moore, of the church of Our Father, Detroit.

The subject was one of a series called "On Life's Ocean," which he is presenting to his Detroit people, and this particular one with which Farmington people were favored last Sunday, was entitled "Head Winds."

Being a "skipper" on the Atlantic during a part of his life, Rev. Moore made some very striking analogies showing the beautiful lessons which could be derived in applying these illustrations to our spiritual life. A very striring poem written by Coleman was read, and throughout it all much good was thrown out to receptive hearts. Rev. Hopp, a young man accompanying Rev. Moore Sunday, who at one time was a German Lutheran pastor, but being under the conviction that he was in the wrong place to satisfy his own spiritual desiries, withdrew from that denomination, and for two years had been writing essays, manuscripts, sermons, etc., while at the same time looking for a permant church home, where life could faithfully and conscientiously work to the glory of the Lord.

Attending the Universalist church he become convinced these
