Mid-Summer Merchandising

OUR PRICES ARE BIGGER BARGAINS EVERY DAY

The cost of staple merchandising is rising every day, and there seems to be no reasonable doubt but that scarcity of goods will become more serious as time goes on.

We are, however, now offering you a large stock of staple merchandise at very reasonable prices—at prices below today's market price. While there may be no "cutting" of prices, for the reason that our prices are below the market, we are still

Giving You Staple Goods at Bargain Prices

Frankly, we could not afford to reduce many of our lines of staple merchandise, because we could not again replace them at the price for which we are selling them for at the present time.

Our future orders of merchandise for fall, much of which is now coming in, is higher in price than the same merchandise now on our shelves—and we are protected in future purchases at that.

Every price offered in our stock is lower than it should be. We cannot maintain these prices long, because our stock of spring goods cannot last long.
