communities of Michigan who have already won respect from their elders by their efforts in raising crops of corn, potatoes, beans and garden truck, will be invited this fall to enlist in sheep raising clubs. Verne A. Freeman, one of the specialists in livestock for the Michigan Agricultural college, will have charge of the effort to interest the boys and girls in this project, the aim of which will be the bringing up and fattening of sheep."Many farmers who are unfamiliar with sheep and their needs do not wish to enter into sheep raising at present prices on a scale large enough to make the business pay," it is stated by the department of boys and girls clubs, "and it is this fact which gives the young people their opportunity. Members of boys and girls clubs can start with a very small flock and grow into the business by saving their best ewe lambs and learning how to care for them in ways that will produce mutton cheapest and give greatest profits."The plan is to organize groups of six or more girls and boys in any community who have three or more bred ewes. Report blanks and instructions will be furnished by leaders in charge, and the work will be placed upon a competitive basis between the members of local clubs and between all club members in the county and in the state. These contests will be finished about September each fall in connection with exhibits and fairs. Here each club member will show his ewes and lambs and will submit his report on the feeds used and the methods employed in the care of the flock.Persons seeking more detailed information of the sheep club program have been asked to write to the boys and girls club department of the college, in East Lansing.ObituaryPalmer Sherman, youngest son of Abram and Nancy Paul Sherman, was born in Lyons county, N. Y., April 7, 1827. When he was 5 years old his mother came to Michigan, locating in Southfield township. With the exception of a few years his home has been in Southfield and Farmington township, until at noon October 24, 1917, when he layed aside the mortal to put on immortality.On December 17, 1851, he was united in wedlock to Loretta E.
Ward, who passed to her savior May 5, 1914. Since then Mr.
Sherman made his home in the village with one of his daughters.
He was the father of nine children, eight of whom are living.
Ward, and Bion, of Moorhead, Minn.; Hudson, of St. Johns, Mich.; Joseph Taylor, of Lansing, Mich.; Abram Edmore, Mich.; Phoebe Ross and Grace Angeline of Farmington, Rhoda Roche of Pontiac, Loretta Blindbury having died in 1904. There are 11 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren surviving him.Mr. Sherman was the youngest of a family of seven children, he being the last one to depart this life. On September 2, 1868, he was united with the Methodist Episcopal church and has continued a member, always having a deep interest in its welfare. Mr. Sherman was of a cheerful disposition and always ready with a kindly word and helping hand for every one. The funeral services were held Saturday morning in the Methodist church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. James S.
Priestley. Interment was made in the North Farmington cemetery.Mothers, sisters, sweethearts, the Red Cross is calling you; do not listen to stories of graft and misuse of funds. You might possibly find such a thing in a few cases, but while you are searching, your boy or your neighbor's boy may be suffering for just the help you can give.
Make surgical dressings, sew knit. The boys will need all you can provide and more.

Try a liner. It will pay you.

Among other reports heard in this locality and traced to the activities of German agents is the story of a lady who knitted a sweater for the Red Cross and later saw it being worn by a person in the neighborhood, is, as far as we can learn, without foundation.Many city people have an idea that when they are out in the country everything in sight is "common plunder," and are not at all particular about whose property they pick up and cart away, and if the farmer along the main roads is not "on guard" every minute, he is apt to be out, if he has anything along the road, and as in the case of last Sunday when parties appropriated apples from a nearby orchard, the pleasure is short lived, and at times very costly to those who thoughtlessly trespass or appropriate even the smallest piece of property not their own.If the friends of the Enterprise could realize how they hinder us from getting through early Thursday night, by sending in their news late, they would, no doubt, change their ways. Most of the items phoned or handed in every Thursday could just as well have been given to the paper Monday or Tuesday, and thus help the printer get through early, Thursday. Many people seem to have the idea that if they get to the office with their news on a Thursday everything will be lovely, but such methods make the day of publication a hard one, indeed. If you want to do your bit in helping theprinter, PLEASE GET YOUR ITEMS IN AS SOON AS POSSI-BLE, and help us to avoid congestion on press day. Try to get the news to us just as soon as it happens. Do you get this thoroughly? We want the News but get it here early. That will be all this time. Thank you.Card of Thanks.We wish to express to the
