

DETROIT AUTO SHOW

A Complete Exhibit of Motor Cars, Trucks, Accessories

This year's Detroit show will be the largest and most comprehensive ever held in the motor city.

MORE THAN 100 EXHIBITORS.

Three floors of this mammoth building are devoted to exhibits. One floor for commercial cars and accessories exclusively. Two floors for passenger cars.

OPENS SATURDAY NIGHT, JAN. 19.

And continues all the next week, 10 a. m. to 10:30 p. m. Daily.

January 19-26, Overland Bldg., Cass and Willis Aves.

Pre-Inventory Sale Curtains and Draperies

BAGG'S Curtain and Drapery Shop, 2d Floor Holden Bldg.
S. W. Corner Griswold and Grand River.

MADISON.
That some women seem fated to get into the weirdest sort of matrimonial mazes is demonstrated in "Daughter of Destiny," which is the story of Madison's first photograph from her own studio, released through the First National Exhibitors Circuit, and announced one week's showing at the Madison theater commencing Sunday, January 13.

WASHINGTON.
Next week—"Alimony," the tie that binds the amazing story of an unwanted wife, a stirring episode of divorcee traffic, written by an old court reporter.

ADAMS.
It pays to advertise week of January 13. For over a year the New York public read in electric lights over Geo. M. Cohen's theater "It Pays to Advertise," and proceeded to pay down $2 to $3 and find out why and how it pays. Detroit will duplicate New York's experience with the one unpleasant feature, the $2 omitted.

Not only Mr. Glaser and Miss Courtney have splendid roles, but the whole company had unusual opportunities.

DETROIT OPERA HOUSE.
Week of January 14.
Julia Sanderson and Joseph Cavertini in the greatest musical comedy, "The Rumber Rose."

GARRICK.
It is an infallible rule in the theatrical world that only the very best plays survive a single season. This rule applies without any reservations to "Good Gracious Anabelle," Clara Kummer's vaudeville comedy announced for local presentation at the Garrick Theater, Detroit, for the week of Monday, January 14, including matinee's Wednesday and Saturday.

DETROIT AUTO SHOW.
The seventeenth annual Detroit automobile show will be held in the Willis Overland building, Cass and Willis avenues, beginning next Saturday night, January 19, and continuing one week.

H. H. Shuart, assistant secretary of the Detroit Dealers' association, who is in charge of details for the forthcoming exhibition, announces that more than 100 manufacturers and dealers will exhibit this year. The passenger car, motor truck and accessory fields will be fully represented when the booths are opened to the public.

"The Detroit show will occupy three floors of the Overland building. Passenger cars will be shown on the second and third floors. Motor trucks and accessories will be shown on the first floor. Decorators are now at work putting the building in shape for the display."

"We have abundant assurance that our show this winter will surpass any previous effort we have made," said Mr. Shuart. "For one thing we will have more room this time than ever before, and the arrangement of the booths will enable us to offer more complete and compact display than ever before."

The show is wide and the booths are roomy. We are going to have a wonderful lighting arrangement. The decorations comprise a Venetian garden effect, with flower covered walls and the background for the various booths."

Particular arrangements have been made to insure the comfort of women and children. The building is fireproof, the construction is of the best, and the stairs are wide and the ample space within the building is a guarantee against crowding.

Progress or Retrogress.
It is often said that "What is good enough for the father is good enough for the son." The statement is incorrect, proclaims a writer. It leaves the wheel on a slope where it can roll. The instant it ceases to ascend it begins to slide down. As with the individual, so with communities and nations—where progress pauses, retrogression begins.

HELP WANTED, MALE.
Men wanted to learn automobile and finance not necessary. Can earn good advancement. Address NATIONAL SERVICE CORPORATION, 702 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Michigan.

Standards of Doctrine.
The Apostles' and the Nicene Creed and the Thirty-nine Articles are the standards of doctrine in both the English and American branches of the Episcopal church. The American church omits the Athanasian Creed, which the English church retains, and has made some alterations in the Thirty-nine Articles, omitting Article 21.

The church acknowledges two sacraments, baptism and the Lord's Supper as generally necessary to salvation, practices infant baptism, admits no one to communion until confirmed of age and desirous to be confirmed, permits those only to officiate as ministers who have received Episcopal orders, and does not agree doctrinally with either Arminians or Calvinists.

Belief in Fate.
A strict belief in fate is the worst of evils, imposing upon our needs an everlasting lord or tyrant, of whom we are to stand in awe, night and day.—Exchange.

Best Words.
A loving word is always a safe word. It may, or it may not, be a helpful word to the one who hears it, but it is sure to be a pleasant memory to the one who speaks it. Many a word spoken by us is afterwards regretted. But there will never come into our hearts at such a time a single pang of regret over any word of impulsive or deliberate affection which passed our lips at any time. We have reason to be on our guard in our speech in most directions; but we can be fearlessly free in our loving utterances. Apart from any question of the good we do to others by our words of love, we are personally the gainers, for now and hereafter, by every such word which we speak out explicitly, and we are sure to be less losers, now and by and by, from every such word which we ought to have spoken and failed to speak.—Exchange.

Pain, the Sentinel.
Ninety per cent of all of our diseases are caused by pain. It is the most instantaneous of the pain in the head or is very quickly reflected there. In this connection, Dr. W. H. Vall writes in the Christian Herald, it is surprising to remember that the brain rarely suffers pain. In fact, this is the truth with most deep seated diseases. Surgeons assure us that in operations, cutting through the brain substance causes little or no pain, and we know that hemorrhages in the brain interfere with the functions of that organ, yet cause no pain. Paradoxical as it may seem, in one sense, it is a sign of a certain degree of health to be able to experience a headache, for it indicates that the brain has not lost its power to warn its owner of impending danger.

Highly Valued Pen.
One of the most valuable pens in the world, and one that has been much coveted by curious hunters, is one owned in New York. It was made from a carved bone in which George Washington, when a young man, kept the teeth of his surveying instrument, the wood of which formed the lid of the box of the captain of the historic Mayflower.

PROTECT YOUR APPLE TREES

Thin Wooden Veneer Wrapper Affords Best Protection Against Girdling by Rodents.

Newly planted apple trees should be protected against winter girdling by mice and rabbits. A tree thoroughly or even partly girdled has little or no chance to live without expert bridge grafting, which is not especially easy, at least for the man who is unaccustomed to it. Perhaps the best protection is obtained by using a thin wooden veneer wrapper, which has been soaked to keep it from breaking, then bent around the tree and held in place by a single wire about the middle. The wire stays in place better if passed through a hole near the outer edge of the veneer wrapper. The wrapper should be pushed down into the earth, so that mice cannot burrow under it, or they may be shut out by heaping soil up around the bottom of the tree and tramping it firm. Coiled green wire may be used in much the same way, but it is more expensive. The veneer wrappers do not usually cost more than one-half or three-quarters of a cent apiece and can be secured from any orchard supply house.

Bunches of long grass or split corn stalks may give good protection against rabbits, but fail to keep mice from doing harm. Newspapers or tar paper wrapped around the tree trunk have been successfully used by many orchardists.

Paint and washes do not give good results, as the rabbits sometimes seem to attack the washed trees more than the untreated ones.

WAX TO GRAFT FRUIT TREES

Ohio Experiment Station Recommends Formula Which Will Be Found Most Satisfactory.

Orchardists who expect to graft apple trees will find the following formula for grafting wax, recommended by the Ohio station, satisfactory: Melt together until thoroughly mixed four pounds of resin, two pounds of beeswax and a pound of tallow. Pour this mixture into a vessel of cold water. Grease the hands with tallow, and when the wax is cool roll it like taffy until it becomes light and smooth. It may then be shaped into balls or sticks, and will keep indefinitely in a cool place. Paraffin substituted for beeswax makes it harder as well as a cheaper wax.

BEES VALUABLE IN ORCHARD

Investigation Shows That Honey Gatherers Do Not Penetrate—Damage by Other Agents.

The idea that bees do harm in an orchard has been disproved in an investigation made at Florence, Italy. The bees cannot penetrate the skin of the fruit, and the damage is due to borers, wild birds, wind or hail. By sucking injured fruit the bees really prevent fermentation and the spreading of rot. They also render service in the cross pollination of flowers and the resulting setting of fruit, orchards and vineyards frequented by them bear most regularly.

SOIL PREPARED FOR GRAPES

When Vines Begin to Spread They Should Be Carefully Trained on Trellises and Pruned.

Grapes require no very extensive preparation of the soil. They need a deep soil, that has been carefully prepared, then sufficient moisture to make plant food available. When the vines begin to spread they should be trained on a trellis, and pruned every year. Cultivation must be sufficient to keep down weeds and maintain a surface mulch. Spraying for certain insects and diseases will be essential sooner or later.
