The United States Food Administration has ruled that all flour mills shall be operated under license and regulations promulgated by them. Mills not conforming thereto shall have their licenses revoked, and be subjected to fine or imprisonment or both. Ruling effective is: That "No licensed mill shall use more than 364 lbs. of cleaned, 58-lb., or heavier wheat in making (196 lbs.) one barrel of flour," also further ruled, "That all contracts made previous to December 25th, for flour of different grades than above specified shall be cancelled and reinstated on a basis of the new grade."

"No miller manufacturing wheat or rye flour, or dealing in wheat or rye flour, shall sell or deliver any such flour to any person knowing that such sale or delivery will give such a person a supply thereof in excess of his reasonable requirements for use or sale by him during the period of 30 days next succeeding the delivery thereof.

As the rulings specify that no wheat flour shall be sold to any customer, unless said customer purchase a like proportion of wheat flour substitute—Buckwheat, Corn Meal Bran or Midlings. We have been compelled to

Save Shoe Costs in Two Ways :-:

Consider the shoe item in your family budget.

It is a fact that shoes cost more per pair than they did. You cannot help that. But it is also a fact that YOUR SHOE EXPENSE DEPENDS LARGELY ON THE WEAR YOU GET FROM SOLES.

Obviously, then, by getting soles that wear better you can reduce your annual expense for shoes.

This leads naturally to the use of Neolin Soles, for these soles do wear better and do save considerable sums for all who use them.

Why not cut down YOUR shoe bills with Neolin Soles? Do it in two ways:

First—get your old shoes out of the closet and have Neolin Soles put on them.

Second—make sure that the new shoes you buy—for any member of the family—have Neolin Soles.

These measures for economy mean no extra initial expense, for Neolin Soles—either on new shoes or as resoles—cost no more than leather.

NEOLIN SHOES

And there is no sacrifice connected with the saving which Neolin Soles bring—quite the opposite.

You lose nothing that leather soles can give and you gain much that leather can not give.

Neolin Soles, for instance, are waterproof. They protect your health from dampness underfoot. They are flexible—make walking easier for men and women and give children's feet a chance to develop proper strength. They wear well, resist slipping and have a quiet tread. THEY HAVE ALL THE QUALITIES SOLES SHOULD HAVE.

When you buy Neolin Soles—either on new shoes or as resoles—be sure the Neolin trade mark is underneath. MARK that mark; stamp it on your memory: NEOLIN—

These Shoes are made by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Akron Ohio, and are now on sale by
